More Study Ordered On Rent Control Plan

'Mother-In-Law' Units Bring Alarm

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Disturbed by the tone of a rent control ordinance that would legitimize "mother-in-law apartments" and further concerned that the red tape of enforcement might be self-defeating, three Marin County planning commissioners ordered more study and less severe wording. (Another planning commission story, page 16.)

The majority of the five commissioners present, William B. Long, Jerry Friedman and Gloria Duncan, faulting the ordinance in its present form, overruled favoring commissioners Margaret B. Azevedo and Marie J. Sessi and returned it to the planning staff.

All five agreed staff should present the controversial proposal to homeowner groups for their reactions.

The ordinance was intended to encourage new "second units" as well as legalizing those that have been built in residential neighborhoods since 1960. It is one of the methods called for in the county general plan to fulfill the county's obligation to provide low and moderate-income housing.

"As a condition to granting (approval) for a second unit, the owner shall contract with the county or its agent to meet moderate income standards adopted by the county," it says.

Existing "second units" — defined as a dwelling with separate kitchen facilities — must be brought up to county standards before they can be legally occupied, the ordinance proposes. New units must be built to county codes.

(There is scant information available on the number of illegal second units in Marin as county officials generally have "looked the other way" except when neighbors have complained. According to planning officials, landlords are reluctant to discuss their second units for fear of abatement.")

Long, Friedman and Mrs. Duncan said the restrictions and red tape would prove "counter productive" to providing more low and moderate-cost housing.

Mrs. Azevedo and Mrs. Sessi said they supported it, while commissioners Rebecca W. Watkin and Gilbert P. Murphy were absent.

The chore of screening those seeking such housing would be the job of the county housing authority, and Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the agency, yesterday voiced his support.

(The county's economic consultant has recommended the housing authority be scrapped and a new "office of housing" be created under the county public works department.)

Of concern to the three reluctant commissioners is that section of the draft ordinance titled "occupancy requirements" under which the housing authority would screen applicants.

It says, in part: "The owner shall secure a tenant whose income conforms to the standards prescribed by the county. . . prior to occupancy of the second unit, the potential tenant must obtain certification from the county housing authority that he meets the standards prescribed for low to moderate-income occupancies."

Additionally, the owner could ask the housing authority to place a tenant. The tenant would have his income screened annually and once it exceeds the moderate-income ceiling he could continue to occupy the dwelling only by paying an extra amount to the housing authority. Those funds would be used to subsidize housing elsewhere.

"If the tenant does not agree to above, he shall be given 90 days to vacate the second unit," it continues.

If he resided in the unit before enactment of the ordinance, he still would be required to meet the low to moderate-income requirements or agree to pay extra — or move out.

The planning department staff was urged by commissioners to rewrite or delete portions of this section to lighten its tone.

Long, who said the ordinance "may be a fine piece of social engineering," suggested second units be permitted in limited areas without rent controls, as a test.

"In the long run, this ordinance will turn people off because of the contractual arrangements and financial requirements," he said, urging that rents be left to a free market.

Long added that no information had been presented to show low and moderate-income persons were being priced out of the free market.

He and Friedman questioned the county cost of carrying out of the proposed ordinance and were told by Planning Director Werner Von Gundell it would not be extremely costly because the demand for such units would not be heavy.

"This ordinance scares the hell out of me," Friedman continued. "We will create such ill will if we proceed as it's drafted we might be defeating its (low and moderate-cost housing) purpose."

Mrs. Duncan added that she supported the idea of second units, but said the ordinance would not do the job because of the red tape and restrictions.

"There has to be some kind of limit on rent and income," Mrs. Azevedo responded, noting the skyrocketing rental market in Marin. "I don't see how we can have a program without regulation."

Bali Crash Kills Marinite

DENPASAR, Bali (UPI) — Indonesian villagers hacked their way through thick jungle today to the scattered wreckage of a Pan American World Airways jetliner and reported they found no survivor among the 107 passengers and crew.

A San Rafael man, Edward J. Keating, 43, was flight engineer on the Boeing 707.

Keating, his wife, Maureen and their four children had lived in Marin about four years, having moved from the East Coast. The family home is at 62 Oakdale Avenue.

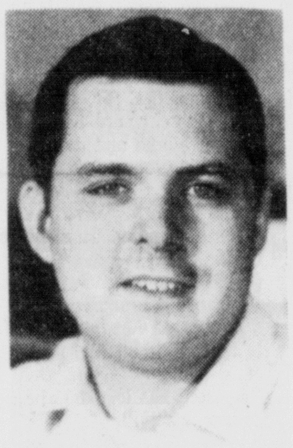
Keating had worked for Pan Am since 1966, officials said.

The big plane, with 107 passengers and crew aboard, crashed yesterday between two mountain peaks on the approach to the Denpasar airport on the Indonesian resort island of Bali.

Just before the crash, the pilot had radioed he had the runway in sight, 37 miles away. Witnesses said they saw flames as the plane hit a mountainside a few hundred feet from the peak.

Indonesian officials said they would withhold an official announcement about the fate of those aboard the plane until army rescue teams reach the area early Wednesday.

The plane with 26 Americans aboard had left Hong Kong for Los Angeles with intermediate stops in Denpasar, Sydney and Honolulu. There were 96 passengers aboard, 17 of them



EDWARD J. KEATING

American, and a crew of 11, of which nine were American, air line officials said.

It was the fourth crash of a Pan American Boeing 707 in the last nine months and the third crash in the South Pacific. There was no explanation for the South Pacific crashes —the airports in most cases have modern facilities and in this crash the pilot said he could see the airport before communication ceased.

One of the Americans aboard the plane was identified as Hilton Hotel executive Maurice Reymond of New York City.

Search and Rescue Coordination Headquarters in Bali said search parties earlier in the day sighted scattered pieces of wreckage about 4,783 feet up the slope of jungled Mount Mesehe, 300 feet from the summit. The plane would have had to pass between Mount Mesehe and nearby Mount Tingatinga before approaching the airport.

Airport officials in Bali said they lost contact with the Pan Am plane at 10:25 p.m. They said the pilot was reporting an overhead position and was turning outbound away from the Denpasar airport—37 flying miles away—when contact was broken abruptly.

Caylor Is Told His Name Cannot Appear On Ballot

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The secretary of state's office late yesterday ruled that Thomas O. Caylor, one of eight candidates competing in the June 4 special election in the Sixth Congressional District, cannot appear on the ballot.

Caylor, generally regarded as the strongest Republican in the crowded field, told the Independent-Journal last night that unless the issue can be resolved administratively within a few days "we will go to the courts."

At issue are apparently contradictory sections of the Elections Code dealing with the residency of persons circulating nomination petitions. Section 6500 says the candidate can select as a verification deputy anyone living within the county, while Section 6502.5 says five sponsors circulating nomination petitions for a candidate must select the deputy from within the district, the candidate explained.

Caylor's verification deputy in San Francisco lives a half a block outside the Sixth District, but within San Francisco County.

Caylor argued that only Section 6500 applies in his case since he is an announced candidate, and did not use the sponsor method of circulating nomination papers.

Under the code section cited by the secretary of state's office, Caylor would have only 38 signatures on his nomination petitions — two short of the minimum needed to qualify for the ballot. Under the other section, he would have 58 signatures, he said.

Caylor said Sacramento officials told him that while either section could apply, the decision on which applied was up to them. The candidate, however, insisted that "we're not going to be forced out of the ballot, one way or the other," he declared. "This is an administrative decision, and I'm not going to fall for it."

The dispute does not affect Caylor's separate candidacy in the regular June 4 primary election for the Republican nomination in the Fifth Congressional District. This is for a full two-year term in the renumbered district, while the special election in the Sixth District is to fill the unexpired term through this year of William S. Mailliard, who resigned.

Caylor is banking, however, on Democratic support as well in the special election, since all voters can ballot for any of the eight candidates. The winner of the special will appear on the November general election ballot as an incumbent.

Others apparently qualifying for the special election ballot were four Democrats: Assemblyman John L. Burton, attorney, and Alan F. Reeves, management consultant, both of San Francisco; Leslie A. Grant, retired accountant, and Terence V. McGuire, owner of a real estate business, both of San Rafael; and three Republicans: Sean McCarthy of San Rafael, Vietnam veteran; Wesley Wilkes of Tiburon, city planner, and Jean M. Wall of San Francisco, teacher and lawyer.

Nixon Granted Time To Answer Subpoena

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, at his request, has been given five more days to answer a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for tapes and other materials relating to 42 of his Watergate related conversations, a White House spokesman said today.

The original deadline for responding to the subpoena which seeks material for the committee's impeachment inquiry was 10 a.m. EDT tomorrow. The extension moves the deadline back to next Tuesday.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said only that Nixon asked for the extension because the project was so time-consuming. House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said he understood the tapes were "of very poor quality" and the White House staff was having difficulties transcribing them.

In describing the project as "time consuming," Warren indicated that Nixon was not planning to hand over the actual tapes.

Instead, he said the staff had been hard at work "compiling" material, suggesting that President Nixon plans to send transcripts of what he considers

Highest Court Sidesteps Race Quota Issue Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today sidestepped the racial quota issue for the second time in as many days, rejecting, 5 to 4, the claim of a white law student that the University of Washington's minority admissions system discriminated against him.

The seven-page unsigned opinion said the claim no longer amounted to a live legal issue since the student, Marco DeFunis, would have completed

Water Panel Delays On Appointment

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Directors of the Marin Municipal Water District will wait until after the June 4 election to appoint a successor to Jordan L. Martinelli Jr., who resigned from the board earlier this month. (Another water district story, page 3.)

The decision, reached yesterday, quashed speculation that the three-man board would name Theodore C. Wellman, a former Marin Community College District trustee, to serve the remaining eight months of Martinelli's term.

Martinelli's Third Division seat will be up for election in June and he had announced before his resignation that he would not seek another term.

Only director John M. MacPhail Jr. had previously voiced opposition to appointing a fourth board member before the June primary. According to an opinion by the district's attorney, Tom Thorner, two votes, those of directors L. Martin Griffin and Jack R. Felson, would have been sufficient for an appointment.

Fairfax Town Council Orders Crowe's Removal On Two Counts

Fairfax Town Administrator Robert E. Crowe, facing trial for his part in a post-election brawl last month, was discharged by the town council last night. (Another Fairfax Town Council story, Page 12.)

The council said that Crowe had in effect resigned when he refused to prepare the town's 1974-75 budget and when he failed last week to report for work after his accumulated sick leave time had expired.

Crowe has been suspended from duty pending outcome of criminal proceedings against him, and last week rejected a proposal that he perform limited budget duties.

(Crowe reported in a letter to the council last Monday that while he is willing to return to work as city administrator, he could not do so under terms of the council's budget preparation offer.)

The council, noting Crowe's sick leave expired last Thursday, voted 4-to-1 to "consider him to have resigned." Freshman councilman Jean-Marie Mahoney opposed the action.

The council majority also agreed that Crowe will be paid about 30 days worth of accumulated vacation time after an audit of his work record, and said he may collect personal effects from his desk at city hall after seeking permission from Mayor Frank R. Egger.

"If he doesn't show up for work, he has submitted his resignation," said councilman Albert E. Gately. "We're tolerating a complete insubordination," he declared.

Although the council essentially fired Crowe last night, it balked at use of the term.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Rabin Is Labor Party's Choice

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Labor Minister Yitzhak Rabin, a war hero turned politician, moved to form a new coalition government today after Israel's leading political party chose him to succeed outgoing Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Rabin

Rabin, the son of Russian immigrants, would become Israel's first "sabra" native born leader if he accomplishes the difficult task of putting together a workable coalition.

The freckle-faced, 52-year-old Rabin conceded, however, the "real possibility" he would fail to find enough coalition partners and have to ask President Ephraim Katzir to call new elections.

The Labor party's Central Committee selected Rabin yesterday to succeed Mrs. Meir, one of Israel's founders.

Sadat Assassination Try Fails

BEIRUT (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat escaped death last week during an assassination attempt that claimed 20 lives on the streets of Cairo, the Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said today.

Sadat

The newspaper said Sadat's motorcade came under fire Thursday afternoon as he drove to Cairo's Technical Military Academy after guerrillas had attacked the institution.

The newspaper said 20 persons, including four members of Sadat's bodyguard staff, were killed and dozens were wounded in the machine gun attack on the motorcade.

Cambodia Fighting

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops, backed by warplanes, hammered rebel forces today in the second day of fighting to blunt an insurgent drive in Cambodia's interior provinces, military sources said.

The sources said five rebel troops were killed and two captured yesterday in the first day of fighting near the provincial capital of Prey Veny, 55 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

Four government soldiers were wounded, the sources said.

Kennedy Tour

TBILISI, USSR (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy brought campaigning American-style to Soviet Georgia today, pressing the flesh as he toured through cheering and applauding crowds.

"How beautiful he is," said one Tbilisi matron as the Massachusetts Democrat walked through the Central Market. A crowd of several thousand followed him like a Pied Piper as he moved through the maze of meat, cheese and vegetable stands in warm, overcast weather.

Kennedy, who is on a week-long visit to the Soviet Union, arrived here from Moscow last night following a four-hour meeting with Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Gaullists Battle

PARIS (UPI) — The two main Gaullist candidates battled to get into the runoff of France's two-stage presidential race, conceding victory to the Communist-backed leftist contender in the final round of the election.

A poll published today in the newspaper L'Aurore gave leftist Francois Mitterand 44 per cent of the first-round vote in next month's presidential election.

The poll said his two main Gaullist opponents would trail far behind with Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing getting 24 per cent and former Prime Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas 19 per cent.

Outposts Stormed

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces stormed three small government outposts in the Mekong Delta and apparently captured the positions, military sources said today.

The sources said the Saigon military command lost radio contact with the three scattered militia outposts yesterday and the bases were presumed overrun by attacking Viet Cong.

Elections Push

LONDON (UPI) — Militant supporters of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's two-month-old Labor government are pressing for new elections to beef up their ranks and adopt left-wing programs, government sources said today.

The sources said the militants want nationalization of basic industries and far-reaching social measures — items on which Wilson must now go slow because Labor controls only 301 of the 625 seats in the House of Commons.

The Feb. 28 election made Labor the largest single party without a majority.

Financing Pact

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan and the Soviet Union yesterday signed an agreement on terms for Japanese loans for development of coal, natural gas and timber resources in Soviet Siberia.

Signing of the agreement does not bind Japan to take part in the projects. The protocol merely set forth the terms for Japanese financing of Siberian resources, in the event Japan later decides to go ahead with the projects.

Patrol Ambushed

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen firing rifles and a Soviet-made antitank rocket ambushed an army patrol early today in Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside district.

An army spokesman said the soldiers drove off the ambushers after a rocket slammed into a bridge near the patrol without causing casualties.

Soldiers later found the rocket's launcher and a rifle in a nearby car.

Battle Lines On No-Fault Bill Drawn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate floor leader for a nationwide no-fault auto insurance bill has opened the debate by attacking opponents of the measure.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, included President Nixon and a lawyers' group yesterday in the first salvo of what could be a long and bitter floor fight.

Whatever the outcome, the controversy has apparently generated an outpouring of mail and lobbyists, with consumer groups on one side and the National Trial Lawyers Association on the other.

Senate opponents have threatened to fibilibuster against the bill.

Nixon, by opposing no-fault, has turned his back on consumers and ignored the advice of administration officials in favor of the lawyers, Moss charged.

The senator said Nixon is supporting lawyers "who earn a comfortable living at the expense of the auto accident victim" and bowing to "those who examine issues only from the standpoint of political expediency."

A no-fault system would provide benefits for all persons hurt in car crashes without having blame and damages assessed in time consuming litigation.

The trial lawyers, many of whom depend on insurance cases for their livelihood, are opposed to no-fault, as are some insurance companies.

Moss said Nixon's opposition to the bill "adds fuel to the fire of those who argue that the President has lost the ability to govern wisely."

Air Attack Is Claimed By Israelis

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israel said its air force bombed and strafed Syrian positions on 9,200-foot Mt. Hermon for two hours today, but Syrian war communiques said Soviet-built missiles had intercepted and prevented the Israelis from reaching their targets. Israel reported all its planes returned safely.

The conflicting reports came as Israeli and Syrian tanks and artillery dueled along the Golan Heights for the 43rd consecutive day in a war of attrition the Israelis say Syria started to improve its bargaining position for the forthcoming round of Kisssinger disengagement talks.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is due in Damascus and Tel Aviv later this month to try to halt the war on the Golan Heights and to reach an agreement separating the two sides. Syrian President Hafez Assad met the country's top leadership yesterday to discuss the coming talks.

UPI Correspondent Jack Payton, with the Israeli troops in Syria, said Syrian shells thudded onto the grassy October war battlefield below the snow-capped mountain and Israeli gunners returned fire. Black smoke rose on the horizon, indicating a hit.

Added Weight To Plea Bargains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless Congress says otherwise, the practice of "plea bargaining"' by which defendants in high echelons and low seek to get off with light sentences, will soon emerge from the shadows of the law and be formally recognized as a proper tool in the administration of justice.

The Supreme Court yesterday sent revised rules for a wide range of pretrial criminal proceedings, including plea bargaining, to Congress. They will become a part of federal court rules on July 1 unless Congress wants to amend or reject them.

The rules grew out of 1967 proposals by a committee of the American Bar Association and were later revised by the U.S. Judicial Conference, which is made up of federal judges.

Other proposed changes involve greater disclosure of evidence between the defense and prosecution, a fuller explanation of rights of the defendant when he pleads guilty or "no contest" and emphasis on issuance of a summons instead of an arrest warrant to start a prosecution.

Under plea bargaining a defendant can, if the prosecution agrees, obtain a reduced charge or a mild sentence in exchange for a guilty or "no contest" plea.

One of the most famous instances occurred last fall when the Justice Department, seeking to avoid a constitutional crisis, allowed Spiro T. Agnew to resign as vice president and avoid a jail sentence in return for a "no contest" plea to a charge of income tax evasion.

But the practice takes place much more frequently and quietly in routine criminal cases, often involving indigent defendants who are advised by attorneys to plead to a lesser charge rather than stand trial.

"In the past, plea discussions and agreements have occurred in an informal and largely invisible manner," the Judicial Conference committee said. "...There has often been a ritual of denial that any promises have been made, a ritual in which judges, prosecutors and defense counsel have participated."

It said failure to recognize the reality of plea bargainining "tends not to destroy it, but to drive it underground."

The proposed new rules would allow both sides to discuss whether a defendant can plead guilty for a lesser sentence. The judge would not be involved at that point. For the first time, under the proposed rules, the plea agreement would have to be presented in open court and the defendant advised of his rights when he enters his plea.

Water Board Counsel Claims Appeal Legal

It was confirmed yesterday that two favorable votes recorded April 10 are enough for directors of the Marin Municipal Water District to appeal a Marin judge's decision that the district's moratorium on new connections is illegal. (Another water district story, page 1.)

The district's attorney, Tom Thorner, yesterday reiterated his opinion that two votes from the presently three-man board constitute a majority.

Therefore, it was not necessary at yesterday's board session to vote again on appealing Judge E. Warren McGuire's March 13 decision.

On April 10, directors Jack R. Felson and L. Martin Griffin supported the appeal. It was believed at that time that John M. MacPhail's "no" vote was enough to block it.

Thorner subsequently reversed the legal opinion in a memorandum to the board.

Maguire is expected to issue his final ruling in early June. An appeal could take from six months to two years to be decided, Thorner said.

In the meantime, the ban on new connections is expected to remain in effect.

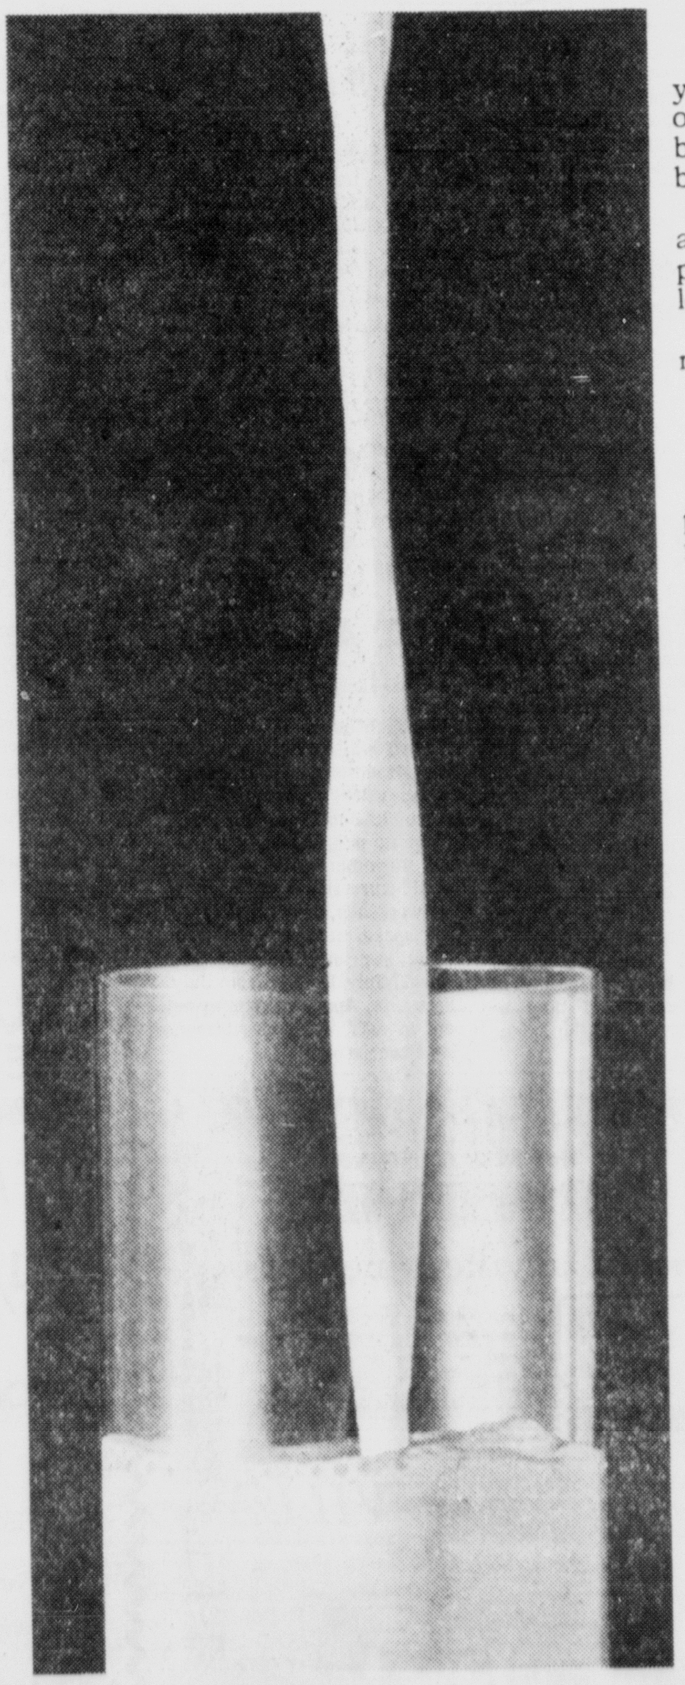
Milk pours the protein on.

For 28¢: half the protein you need each day.

Drink in this fact:
For just 28¢, you can get half your daily allowance of protein.
Because 28¢ is all it costs for three 8-ounce glasses of milk.
Compare that to what you'd pay for the same amount of protein in other foods. For example, two slices of calves' liver. Or half a cup of tuna chunks. Or...well, you name it.
In fact, just about the only protein you can get for less these days comes from certain dried peas, beans and nuts. (Yum.)



Now: does this mean you shouldn't eat meat or fish? Of course not, because they belong in balanced diets.
But if you're worried about the rising price of protein, now you know a low-cost way to pour it on.
In fact, you can really make a splash.

California Milk Advisory Board

P.S. Now we're going to pour on some important facts and figures...
1) When we say three 8-ounce glasses of milk a day, we mean 24 ounces in all. Which cost 28¢, based on the average price in California stores for one-half gallon.
2) The recommended daily allowance of protein is 45 grams. It's endorsed by the Food and Drug Administration, no less. (And three glasses of milk, by the way, contain precisely 25.5 grams of protein: more than half the recommended amount.)
3) All protein measurements from "Nutrition and Physical Fitness," W.B. Saunders Co., ©1973.
There now. Got the pitcher?

Milk has something for every body.™

SOLAR STUDY FACILITY

Workmen are rushing to finish a solar observatory at Stanford University which will study the sun's magnetic field, one of very few such facilities in the world. Dedication of the building is scheduled Friday. A metal dome that opens for solar observations will be mounted atop the concrete-walled building at left that will contain focusing mirrors, instruments and an 80-foot pit. Russia has a similar facility near Yalta in the Crimea.

San Marin Plan Faces Density Cut

A revision of the San Marin master plan that would reduce population density along San Marin Drive was recommended last night by the Novato Planning Commission.

Commissioners recommended a change from multiple-family to single-family residential for most of the lots along San Marin Drive from San Carlos Way west to San Marin High School.

The planning staff reported the proposed revisions would decrease the population density from 140 dwelling units to about 95 units.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

CORKLAND PARCEL — Recommended that the Alvin Corkland parcel, 32.9 acres at the southwest corner of Hill Road and Tamalpais Avenue be rezoned from single-family residential with 10,000-square-foot lots to single-family residential planned district, which would permit fewer homes on the land and bring it into conformance with Novato's general plan.

CONDOMINIUMS — Upheld plan review committee approval of final site, architecture and landscape drawings for the Warner Creek, Condominium project, 70 units on 2.29 acres on the east side of Diablo Avenue between Warner Creek and Center Road.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House to continue review of the proposed revisions to the general plan.

ing, Felson said yesterday that he had concluded that the voters from Division Three should have the opportunity to express themselves.

"While Marty (Griffin) and I have the ability to make this decision, a requisite of a public official is not to abuse his power," Felson said. "Therefore, an appointment should not occur until after June 4."

He added that if one of the three candidates received a majority of the June vote, then he would support appointing that person to serve the remainder of Martinelli's term, which expires Dec. 31.

If there is no "significant outcome," Felson said, then he would move to appoint someone else immediately following the election.

Seeking to represent Division Three, which includes Ross, Larkspur, Greenbrae and parts of Kentfield, Fairfax and San Anselmo, are Dr. William J. Filante, Joan Seminario and Margaret Neese.

To be elected in June, a candidate must get a majority of the votes cast. If none receives a majority, a runoff between the two top vote getters will be held in November.

(The second vacancy on the board, created by the resignation of Dr. Ronald T. Stafford, also is to be filled in the June election.)

Accompanying yesterday's decision was some acrimonious discussion between MacPhail and his two remaining board colleagues.

Holding aloft three letters to the editor printed in Friday's Independent-Journal which revealed publicly for the first time the board's possible appointment of Wellman, Griffin raised the question of how the information had been leaked. He noted that one of the letters had been signed by Joe Gereghty, a relative of MacPhail.

Without hesitation, MacPhail admitted that he had mentioned Wellman's name in several telephone inquiries about the possible appointment. "Unlike you and Jack, who apparently feel the need to consider important issues away from the board room, I have no compunction to meet in secret," he said. "A Watergate enthusiast such as our chairman (Felson) apparently has not learned the lesson of Watergate . . ."

Griffin snapped back that MacPhail had supported the appointment of Wellman wholeheartedly, then had changed his mind. "The only thing I can conclude is that the pressures from your constitutents are so great, that you can't stick by a decision," he said.

CROWE

perhaps mindful of city code which requires a 90-day grace period after a municipal election before an incumbent city manager can be fired.

Crowe told the Independent-Journal today that the council's action last night "follows the same illegal pattern as their previous actions suspending me in violation of the town code.

"The action last night was clearly an attempt to fulfill their campaign promises to remove me as city administrator. It appears that the action was an attempt to circumvent the requirement that the city administrator be evaluated for 90 days following a general municipal election," Crowe said.

"I absolutely did not resign and indicated to the council last week that I was ready, willing and able to return to work as city administrator as provided under the town code."

Crowe will be arraigned Monday in Marin Superior Court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The charge stems from a brawl March 6 in which Crowe grabbed an ax and grappled in a city street with 19-year-old Kenneth M. Davidson, who held a beer bottle. Davidson has been charged with disturbing the peace.

Last night's action came after a brief discussion at the end of a marathon five-hour council meeting at the Fairfax Women's Club.

The new deadline for Nixon to respond to the subpoena, April 30, is the first anniversary of the forced resignations of his two former top aides, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, at the peak of the Watergate unraveling.

Meantime, two Democratic members of the House Judiciary Committee said today they have found growing sentiment among their constituents for impeachment of President Nixon.

None of the 17 Republicans on the 38-member committee reported such a trend.

Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., an early advocate of impeachment, said, "In Northern California, the desire for impeachment seems to have increased."

Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., a conservative who usually belittles the impeachment effort, said the report on Nixon's overdue taxes fermented the public, "even in my district."

A Republican, Rep. David W. Dennis of Indiana, said: "My people — the majority of them — expect some substantial showing of moral and criminal misconduct by the President before they will support impeachment. They are a little more aware of the problem now, but they haven't seen the evidence yet."

Meanwhile, the committee — without even waiting for Nixon's reply to its subpoena for tapes of 42 conversations with aides in 1973 — sent the White House a new request for information.

Committee sources indicated the new request asks for tapes dealing with contributions from milk cooperatives and the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

When pressed further as to why it was taking so long, Warren said:

"I'm telling you in all candor, the final decision has not been made."

Two Jailed In Probe Of Drugs

Sheriff's deputies confiscated what they described as "a large quantity" of amphetamines yesterday and arrested two men in Marin City on suspicion of a variety of narcotics and weapons crimes.

Patrick Michael Quinn, 28, of Gate 5, Waldo Point, and John Bonner Davison, 33, also known as John Satoris, of Fetters Hot Springs in Sonoma County, were booked into county jail on suspicion of possessing narcotics for sale and narcotics paraphernalia and on suspicion of shooting firearms in an unincorporated area. In addition, Quinn was booked on suspicion of carrying a concealed weapon and Davison for having outstanding traffic warrants. Both were held in lieu of $50,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

They were arrested at the end of Waldo Court at 4:06 p.m. after deputies heard shots being fired. Found at the scene were a shotgun and pistol, according to investigators.

COURT

his law studies regardless "of any decision this Court might reach on the merit of this litigation."

The action sent to the matter back to the Washington state Supreme Court which in March, 1973, overturned a lower state court ruling admitting DeFunis to the law school, where he had been turned down although the school had accepted blacks who scored lower than he did on qualification tests.

Referring to widespread controversy over the issue of quotas and preferential treatment to assure the rights of minorities, Justice William J. Brennan said on behalf of himself and the other three dissenters that rejection of DeFunis' claim "clearly disserves the public interest."

"Few constitutional questions in recent history have stirred as much debate, and they will not disappear," Brennan said. "They must inevitably return to the federal courts and ultimately to this Court."

The other dissenters were Justices William O. Douglas, Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall.

In two other opinions today, the court:

Ruled 5 to 4 that "all forms of managerial employes" are excluded from union membership.

Ruled unanimously in a Colorado case that a state may not place a ceiling on work expense deductions for recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Petition Drive To End Monday

A nationwide petition drive to Congress asking for campaign finance reform ends Monday, according to a spokesman for the sponsoring League of Women Voters.

Local residents wishing to sign the petition supporting Senate Bill 3044 may call the League of Women Voters of Central and Southern Marin.

Reagan Would Fire Striking Employees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today that state employees would be fired after five days if they go on strike.

"Strikes are illegal on the part of public officials. I would uphold the law," Reagan told a Capitol news conference.

But Reagan said "I have great faith in the public employees of this state" and hopes there is no strike.

Leaders of the California State Employees Association (CSEA) have threatened to strike if Reagan refuses to arbitrate pay increases.

Reagan said he could not arbitrate.

"I don't believe we have the right to do that," he said.

Arbitration would, in effect, give an outsider the power to make a decision that could result in a state tax increase, the Republican chief executive said.

Reagan said his offer of nearly $250 million in state pay raises this year, contained in state budget, is what was recommended by the state Personnel Board and is fair.

The offer is being distorted by CSEA leaders, he said.

The law dealing with strikes says that "at the end of five days of an unexcused absence, the person is no longer employed," Reagan said.

If there was a strike, the state would hire replacement employees after the five-day period had passed, Reagan said.

PUC Opens Decision Conference

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For the first time in 60 years, the California Public Utilities Commission opened its controversial, closed decision conference to the public.

The previously closed conferences long had been a source of friction between consumer groups and certain legislators and the commission. But there was no indication whether the open conferences would be continued.

State Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, was on hand along with William Matson Roth, who seeks the Democratic nomination for governor, in what they called a test effort to open up the commission hearings.

Last week, San Francisco Examiner reporter R. L. Revenaugh was arrested when he refused to leave the hearing room at the beginning of the PUC decision conference. He was on hand again today but like everyone else was allowed to remain when the conference was thrown open.

PUC President Vernon Sturgeon announced at the outset that the meeting would be opened for the first time, but he gave no indication whether this would be a regular practice.

"We'll have to wait until next week and see," said Moscone. "If next week is not open, then we'll be back the following week."

He said that if the PUC should continue its closed session policy, he would look into legislation to change the situation.

TV Weatherman's Condition Serious

Television weatherman Robert Lobertini of Greenbrae was reported in serious condition today at Ross General Hospital, suffering from various internal ailments, a KPIX-TV spokesman said.

The spokesman said Lobertini is not expected to be released from the hospital for at least two weeks.

Bayshore Lanes Will Be Closed

SAN JOSE (UPI) — All lanes of the Bayshore Freeway at the new Interstate 280-680 interchange in south San Jose will be closed for two days starting at midnight tonight.

Motorists will be detoured around the site to permit work crews to remove temporary beams on the interchange structure, the Department of Transportation said.

A spokesman said motorists would receive adequate warning of the detour by warning lights and flagmen. The freeway is scheduled to reopen at midnight Thursday.

Water Safety Course Slated

The Petaluma Recreation Department's annual Red Cross water safety aide course will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m. May 6 through May 17 at the municipal swim center.

A spokesman said the class is open to residents who are at least 14 years old and who have current Red Cross swimmers, junior lifesaving or senior lifesaving certificates.

The class trains students to help conduct swimming classes.

Behr Would Open Up Use Of Pipelines

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring petroleum companies to make their intrastate pipelines available to other companies at a reasonable fee has been introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure would empower the Public Utilities Commission to assure that pipelines are open to all companies wanting to transport petroleum products within the state and to set fees for their use.

The senator said that the pipelines are the chief means of transporting oil products, and those excluded from using them cannot compete with the companies big enough to afford the cost of building them.

"By opening access to the pipelines," Behr said, "we will have insured competitive prices in a market all too easily controlled by a few large corporations."

The bill was proposed by Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger.

Driver Is Sentenced By Judge

A San Rafael man, once charged with felony drunken driving, has been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court on a misdemeanor count of the same offense.

Manuel Furtado, age unknown, was given a 15-day suspended jail sentence yesterday by Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman.

Furtado also was placed on two years' probation, fined $315 and ordered to attend the court's school for drinking drivers.

Terra Linda Group Part Of Program

An instrumental quartet from Terra Linda High School will be featured, along with other young Bay Area musicians, on KGO-TV's "Young Sounds of Spring," Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Members of the group are Bob Elkjer, Joseph Alessi, William Gwynne, and Daniel Nichols. The group will play a variety of rock, Dixieland and jazz pieces.

Woman Injured In Horse Race

A Mill Valley woman, thrown from her horse as she neared the finish line of a 50-mile endurance ride Saturday, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Injured was Rosalie Kessler, 32, of 23 Stanton Way. She suffered a broken upper right arm in the accident near Bolinas about noon.

An observer said Mrs. Kessler, in second place, was injured about a quarter of a mile from the finish line. The accident happened on the old Wilkins Ranch.

A free fact sheet giving historical information about the process of impeachment, along with the current work of the Congress investigating the impeachment process has been prepared by the League of Women Voters, and may be obtained by calling the league office.

School Chief Has Surgery

Milton S. Cohen, superintendent of the Larkspur School District, has undergone abdominal surgery and will remain in Marin General Hospital for several days, a school district spokesman said today.

Gilbert L. Slusher, assistant superintendent, said Cohen underwent surgery last week and will probably remain in the hospital for from 10 days to three weeks.

Slusher said the 53-year-old Cohen, who has been the district superintendent since 1962, is not yet receiving visitors. The hospital declined to report on Cohen's condition.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Winners, Losers Under County Plan

The typical homeowner's tax bill in San Rafael in 1990 will be $306 higher with the Marin County General Plan (the misnamed "countywide plan") in effect than it would be without it. In Novato, it will be only $199 higher, but in Mill Valley it will be $477 higher.

These are estimates contained in the economic impact study of the county plan prepared by consultants Baxter, McDonald and Smart for an $80,000 fee.

However, says the consultants' report presented last week to the Marin County Board of Supervisors: "Marin's residents will be able to support the costs of public services at the level we have predicted and those who decide to move elsewhere will have done comparatively well by their investment in a home in Marin."

As for newcomers (those who will be allowed under the plan), the report continues, "the situation is entirely different. . . (They) will increasingly have affluence in common. In large measure, however, (this) will occur with or without the countywide plan."

There you have it, in a nutshell.

THE COUNTY PLAN proposes to subsidize low-income and moderate-income housing to make up about one-third of all new dwelling units. The county planning department, in drafting the plan, estimated that $155 million of this subsidy would come from the federal government, $6 million from the state, and $310 million from local or "unidentified" sources.

"Given the current federal and state housing assistance picture," says the consultants' report, "there is no hope that outside funding will be available anywhere near the magnitude needed in Marin."

Nevertheless, it accepts the estimates of $155 million federal and $6 million state funds for subsidized housing. If the county financed the remaining $310 million, "this would translate into a tax rate for the city-centered corridor equivalent to $1.20 in 1980. . . and $1.54 in 1990," says the report.

BEAR IN MIND, this would be on top of the tax rates levied for everything else. It is part of the reason the typical San Rafael homeowner will have to pay $306 more taxes in 1990 if the plan is carried out than if it is abandoned.

The other part of the reason is that, by limiting new non-subsidized construction, the county plan will result in lower assessed valuation than would normally accrue — despite the fact that, according to McDonald, Baxter and Smart, the average dwelling unit will cost $4,100 more in 1990 with the plan in effect than without it.

THESE FACTS emerge from the figures:

The Marin County General Plan will intensify, rather than diminish, the trend toward Marin's becoming a "suburb only for the rich."

Financial gainers from the plan will be those who, as the consultants phrase it, move away after having "done comparatively well by their investment in a home in Marin."

The young people who grew up in San Rafael, their parents who regard a home as something more than an investment, the thousands who lose jobs here because of restrictions on growth and employment — they will be the losers.

If this message from McDonald, Baxter and Smart's report gets through to those in authority, perhaps the economic impact study may prove to be worth far more than the $80,000 it cost us.

We Finance Our Own Aristocracy In California

By EARL G. WATERS

Although it says right in the first article of the Constitution there shall be no nobility in the United States, an aristocracy does exist.

And it is on the rise among those who are entrenched in high public positions. Many of the hard-earned dollars the citizens have this month turned over to local, state and federal governments will go to support these officials in a manner that would make a foreign potentate look like a pauper.

The tragedy is that much of this is occuring in education, among those to whom the citizens have entrusted the training of the young.

A PRIME EXAMPLE of this publicly funded aristocracy is U.C. President Charles J. Hitch. Because Hitch is only one of growing numbers, this column will continue to sound the alarm at the risk of laboring the subject. For what is needed to head off this abuse is not silence but an army of Paul Revers to awaken the countryside.

Hitch is paid a salary far, far greater than most of California's 20 million citizens who foot the bill. His $55,000 salary is even greater than that paid the governor.

But that is only the tip of the iceberg. He lives in a million-dollar mansion for which he pays nothing, not even his own phone bill which is included in a $3,200 item budgeted for utilities. Also in the 1974 budget is $11,300 for house and yard maintenance that does not include the costs of caring for the extensive gardens surrounding the home. That is charged to UC's School of Landscape Architecture.

Also provided in the budget is $20,700 for servants to wait upon Hitch. Other citizens who employ household help pay for it out of earnings after taxes and also must pay their employer payroll taxes.

And, as disclosed in the Hitch contract which was secretly executed and made public only after a court action, he is given a $15,000 a year slush fund for entertainment. The contract further showed an unusual retirement benefit had been provided, as well as a limousine complete with chauffeur.

THE REGENTS have justified this princely compensation with the claim it is necessary to recruit the best available person for the job of president. But Hitch was already working for UC at much less salary and without any house or other benefits when he was named president.

And Hitch isn't the only one. All of the chancellors of UC are provided with free homes and servants. For this the budget contains nearly $300,000, and that doesn't include the costs of the homes.

There seems to be no limit to how deep such people will dip into the pockets of the taxpayers if given half a chance. For example, the daughter of Berkeley's Chancellor Albert Bowker recently was given a scholarship to Stanford Medical School through a state program intended for needy students. Bowker's salary is in excess of $47,000 and his wife is a professor at Hayward State College, where her salary is above $16,000.

Hitch recently returned from a five-week all-expense-paid tour of the Orient. Normal vacation for state employes with less than 10 years service is only 15 days. But Hitch drew his full salary all during his absence. Ordinary citizens must travel on their own time and pay for it out of their earnings after taxes.

Citizens who are concerned about the lavish life they are providing university officials could make their views known to Assemblymen Charles Warren, Kenneth Cory, John L.E. Collier, Gordon Duffy and John Vasconcellos. These legislators comprise the Ways and Means subcommittee which has the power to eliminate this free housing and other benefits from the budget.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Sierra Club Member Retorts To Speaker

Knowing that the I-J has a policy of fairly reporting the news, I was shocked to see an April 19 article with the headline "Timber Said Endangered By Eco-Freak Opposition" and then to find that the government official whose remarks were being quoted had not used the derisive and meaningless terminology that appeared in the headline.

I was also shocked (and in a kind of a way, almost pleased) to find out that the 145,000 members of the Sierra Club have enough clout to have "arbitrarily and unilaterally decided what national recreation should be and are trying to impose their verdict on the rest of America." . . . Has the Constitution been amended to allow a private organization to pass laws and make court decisions? I hope not!

Asst. Agriculture Secy. Robert W. Long is worried that environmental concerns may have "swung the pendulum too far away from productive uses of the environment." He says that he would like to have a "rule of reason" on the use of natural resources so we could "preserve them while applying them to the public good."

This kind of hypocritical double talk would have allowed much of a beautiful national forest in Alaska to have been clear cut and sold to Japan. I guess his idea of preservation is to turn the trees into 2 x 4's. . .

Audience Did Not Favor School Change

Your article of April 18 concerning the conversion of Adaline E. Kent Elementary School to a middle school reads, "Supt. Eugene E. Peters said an audience of about 100 persons strongly supported the conversion." In fact, this statement is totally untrue and a majority of those 100 persons in the audience were very vocal in voicing their distress over the proposed closing of our community elementary school.

New Findings Stress Marijuana's Danger

A recent article originating in Washington, D.C., called attention to the increasing number of congressmen who desire to see marijuana legalized. A group of scientists at Columbia University's College of Physicians and surgeons point out that marijuana, far from being a harmless drug, may be an insidious biological time-bomb planted in the reproductive organs of smokers, attacking their resistance to disease, and delay-fused to explode in their offspring.

These new findings are so serious in nature that they cannot be lightly disregarded by anyone sincerely nterested in discovering the true nature of cannabis and how harmful it may be. The American public, and especially our youth, needs to know the truth. This is a day when truth is put on the scrap heap by so many of our so-called intellectuals.

There are many who disagree with the sweeping conclusion of the National Commission on Drug Abuse in its 1972 report — that marijuana is neither harmful nor addictive — in the face of strong clinical evidence of genetic damage.

And coincidentally, an "announcement" may be appropriate at this juncture. The U.S. Senate has unanimously passed the Hatfield resolution setting next Tuesday for a national day of prayer and fasting . . .

One Way To Counter Attack On Bible

We are always saying one person can't do much to change the world, but. . . One person, Madeline Murry O'Hare, the atheist crusader, succeeded in making it illegal to read the Bible or pray in school!

Now she has obtained 27,000 signed letters protesting the decision of the astronauts to read the Bible as a Christmas message to the world from their space craft while orbiting the moon December, 1968. She plans to present these letters to National Aeronautics and Space Administration with a demand that the astronauts be publicly censured for their act. . .

You are but one, but you can do something about this. An effort is being made to secure one million signed letters commending the astronauts for their action. This would be an overwhelming defeat for Mrs. O'Hare and a great triumph for the faith in our Lord, Jesus Christ Our Savior, and His word. . . Take pen in hand and write a letter (to) National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Manned Space Craft Center, Astronaut Office, Houston, Tex. 77058. . . Then sign your name.

Nader's Accusations Called Irresponsible

This is addressed to students at Sonoma State who may have listened to Ralph Nader, as reported in the I-J on Saturday, and to others who follow his ideas.

Assuming that he is to be taken seriously, ask yourself:

(1) What precisely is he suggesting or recommending that you do: (a) give up your automobile? (b) limit yourself to one suit of clothes? (c) put up your own windmill?

2. Is the policy, or course of action, that he recommends for the U.S. to follow (assuming that he has such a recommendation, which I doubt) in the best interests of the majority of the people of this country?

In other words, how practical are his notions? And compare his irresponsible and opinionated accusations with the job being done every minute of every hour of every day by those, in both the public and the private sector, who are responsible for providing heat for your bedroom and bathroom, gas or electricity for your instant coffee, fuel for your car and power for your stereo, TV, and long-distance phone calls.

Has Nader earned the right to speak on so many controversial subjects?

STROUT IN WASHINGTON

Vice President Plenty Busy Doing What Comes Naturally

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON — Jerry Ford is out doing what comes natural to him: helping his party, of which he is the one bright spot.

Last week it was California where the vice-president appeared publicly for Rep. Burt L. Talcott of the 12th District in Salinas, and for Jerry L. Pettis of Los Angeles County, dedicated something or other for senior citizens, and made a speech at the Republican state convention at San Jose.

In between, he was supposed to be relaxing at Palm Springs.

"HE SPENDS ABOUT 75 per cent of his time fund-raising," his staff says here.

Facing the athletic, hard-working, plain speaking vice president as he criss-crosses the country are hundreds of thousands of faces of people he does not know; extended hands with smiles of greeting attached; innumerable six-course formal dinners at which he is introduced with ruffles and flourishes; and the prospect as far as he can see of a grinding itinerary of delivering speeches intended to raise flagging party morale.

Behind all this there is a much more delicate and difficult task, to maintain just the right relationship with beleaguered President Nixon in the White House.

IF THE BIG-BONED vice president looks back at Washington, the aspect is reasonably dismal.

There are those tapes and, for the first time, the House Judiciary Committee investigaging impeachemnt has given an overwhelmingly bipartisan vote, 33 to 3, demanding that the White House turn over specific conversations. The Republican minority shows signs of anger.

Prominent figures continue to drop out of the administration — George P. Shultz, Bryce N. Harlow, Melvin R. Laird.

Popularity polls seem to have stabilized, with Mr. Nixon holding a loyal 25 per cent of those responding, but the party's relative standing is sinking.

Mr. Ford's relations with the beleagured White House are difficult and some would say impossible. Newsmen harp on any facied difference and party leaders watch with held breath.

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY maintained cordiality with Lyndon Johnson prior to the 1968 election, but Ford's tightrop walk is a lot more difficult. He constantly maintains that he is not a candidate, which is what candidates normally do at this point. Whether he is one or not, Ford seems to be the favorite GOP runner in the polls.

Ford's White House relations have had three phases.

In January at Alantic City, he made an all-out denunciation of administration critics and identified himself squarely with the man who picked him for his job. In a speech written in the White House he saw "a few extreme partisans" waging "a msasive propaganda campaign" against Mr. Nixon.

In Phase II at Chicago, Ford found a scrapegoat which permitted him to hit hard: He denounced the "arrogant, elite guard of political adolescents" who ran the Committee for the Re-election of the President (which Ford called "CREEP") and inferentially disassociated Mr. Nixon from the sorry mess. The committee had betrayed the busy president, he implied.

PHASE III seems to pull Mr. Ford farther away from Mr. Nixon. It has brought a rebuke from Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary.

In the New Republic magazine, correspondent John Osborne gave Ford's thinking on a speculative cabinet if he, Ford, became president. He would bring back George Shultz, Melvin Laird and Bryce Harlow; he would retain Gen. Alexander M. Haig; he might drop James H. Schlesinger, secretary of defense and he would definetely drop Ziegler.

Coming from Easter services at Key Biscayne, Fla., on April 14, Ziegler sharply criticized as "inappropriate" Ford's remarks. The president "is going to be here until 1976," Ziegler reportedly said.

If One House On Stinson Beach, Why Not A Row Of Houses?

It is tempting to criticize the regional and state coastal commissions for putting a Stinson Beach property owner through a four-month battle costing her almost $5,000 just to build a beachfront home.

It quickly strikes one that Proposition 20 was not intended to put people through such a trying and expensive ordeal. The proposition, which created the commissions, instead seems aimed at major projects such as Bodega Harbour.

WE RELUCTANTLY confess, however, to unease about the inequity of granting a permit to Barbara Alban for her Stinson Beach home — but not to Herbert H. Angress for a lodge he wants to build near Marshall. The lodge, after all, would serve the public, giving access to shoreline that now is closed to the public. The Alban home, however, will bar the public from a piece of beach it has used since a prior house on the site burned down in 1960.

Another shadow of inequity arises by contrasting the Alban permit with the claim by the staff of the regional commission that the entire beach at Seadrift belongs to the state since the public has used it for years.

How can anyone support both the Alban permit and the staff position on nearby Seadrift beach?

Surely no one is going to spend public money to buy her lot, which would cost some $30,000. And how about the 21 undeveloped lots like Miss Alban's? They also are directly on the beach.

How can anyone say hers was a unique hardship and yet not allow a wall of houses on the beach? The Regional Water Quality Control Board's moratorium on new construction in the community, after all, will run out someday.

The coastal commissions have a really tough job. Hemmed in on all sides by conservationists and those who want to build, the commissioners have to come up with a plan for the coast that will fly politically when submitted to the 1976 Legislature. No matter what they do, the commissions will get to Sacramento with a heavy baggage of enemies.

It's far easier,fortunately, to criticize the commissions than to make their decisions.

THOMAS O. CAYLOR of San Francisco, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress, almost dropped out of the race unintentionally.

He and his wife, Carla, thought at first that they had food poisoning. It got steadily worse, however, and on the third day they keeled over at home. Recovering after an ambulance trip to the hospital, they learned they had almost died of carbon monoxide caused by a defective home heater.

A Planner Can't Even Control Density In His Own Home

After a hard day at City Hall, Chief Planner Quentin Upright headed home looking forward to an evening of relaxation in his living room.

On arrival at home he headed for his favorite chair by the fireplace, only to discover that the living room had been changed into a bedroom.

"What the heck's going on around here?" he shouted to his wife, who was in the kitchen preparing supper.

"Not too much," she replied. "I started spring cleaning today and while I was at it, I decided to revise the house general plan."

"YOU KNOW THAT ROOM was zoned for a living room," Upright said. "You can change the furniture around, but you can't change the basic use."

Slightly peeved, Upright headed for what used to be their bedroom and discovered it had been transformed into his den.

"What is my den doing here?" he asked.

"I had to put it someplace," his wife replied.

"But this part of the house isn't suitable for administrative-professional. There's too much space and it throws the whole house plan out of balance."

"Oh, but I did balance it out," his wife said. "I put the children's bedroom in your old den."

"It's not big enough for two children," he replied.

"Oh, yes it is," she said. "I bought bunk beds and there is room for both in there.

UPRIGHT STORMED over to the children's bedroom, formerly his den, and measured the room carefully with a yardstick.

"There I knew it," he said. "This room isn't big enough for a duplex bedroom. There isn't enough square footage and therefore the density is too high."

Undaunted, Mrs. Upright grabbed him by the hand and led him down the hallway to the new living room, formerly the children's bedroom. They bumped into the two children running toward their new bedroom.

"See, even the traffic circulation doesn't work," Upright muttered.

"Now," Mrs. Upright said, "isn't this a nice living room? It has a lot of room, a lot of light, and a nice view."

Upright sauntered over to the window, looked out at the rear yard, and shouted, "What are those pine trees and that tent doing out there?"

"Well, while I was at the nursery today, they had a sale on pine trees, so I bought three, and then the children decided to put a tent up."

"There goes the open space plan," Upright said.

"That's not all," Mrs. Upright said. "I saw the doctor today and we have violated the growth control policy."

Ballot Issues To Be Aired

Two ballot issues facing Fairfax voters June 4 will be aired at a town forum sponsored by the Fairfax Merchants and Businesspeople's Association at 7:30 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club.

At issue are a police pay measure which would set the salary of town police at a level no lower than that paid by other Marin police agencies, and a proposal by the Fairfax School District board for a $750,000 bond issue to finance a multiuse facility at White Hill School.

Police representatives and school officials will appear at the forum, according to association publicist Jerry Brown.

The Polyester Plan To Keep Wives Happily Complaining

WASHINGTON — A group of men were having lunch at a well-known restaurant in Washington the other day. Although they were in various professions, they all had one thing in common. They were away from home a great deal and their wives had said they were getting fed up with it.

Amazingly enough, it turned out that their wives, who did not even know each other, used the identical phrases when complaining about their lot.

These included: "All I'm doing is running a hotel."

"The only time I see you is when you come home to get clean laundry."

"You weren't even here for your own daughter's birthday party."

"What the heck is so important in — — ?" (Fill in the city where you're going.)

IT WAS AT THIS juncture that Polyester, who works for a computer firm, sprung his plan.

"Our wives' main complaint," he said, "is that they have no one to talk to, which translates no one to bitch to. The reason why we're missed is that they want someone to listen to their stories and give them moral support."

We all agreed Polyester's description of our wives was accurate.

"Suppose," he said excitedly, "we had a computer that could match up complaining wives with other husbands who were on the road?"

We all looked goggle-eyed.

"ARE YOU SUGGESTING wife-swapping?" Acrilan asked.

"In a sense," said Polyester, "but no hanky-panky in the bedroom. You swap wives just so that they have someone to talk to. Let me give you an illustration. I'm on my way to Boston and I feed the computer at National Airport the arrival of my flight and how long I'll be there. I also tell the computer how many children I have, my position in the firm and salary.

"The object of the computer would be to match me as closely as possible to my own situation at home. The computer gives me an address and phone number. At this very moment there is a man in Boston coming to Washington, D.C., and he goes to his computer and asks for an address here. He gets mine. Right?

"Okay. I get to Boston and I check into my hotel. Now remember, the success of this scheme is no hanky-panky.

"Let's say my surrogate wife is Mrs. Dacron. I call her and ask when dinner is being served. I show up at the house at 6 p.m. and before I even get to hang my coat in the closet, Mrs. Dacron fills me in on the day. She tells me how lousy the kids have been behaving, what went wrong with the garbage disposal unit, how much she paid for eggs and how she can't manage a family on my salary. I get an earful.

"At this very moment the man from Boston is at my house listening to my wife doing two hours on what it's like to run a house when the man doesn't even know where the fuse box is.

"MRS. DACRON is thrilled to have someone here to let out her frustrations on, and my wife finally has someone besides the kids to talk to."

"But what happens after dinner?" someone asked.

Polyester replied, "I go into the living room and watch television while Mrs. Dacron does the dishes."

"Don't you help her with the dishes?"

"Hell no. It would ruin it for Dacron if I did something he didn't do. Then after watching TV I go to my hotel. Dacron, who presumably let my wife do the dishes while he read the evening paper, also goes back to his place."

The trouble with Polyester's plan, when we all discussed it later, is that not one of us could find a single thing wrong with it.

Nixon Address Set

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — President Nixon will address a Republican rally at Veterans Memorial Coliseum May 3, Republican officials confirm yesterday.

Two Oil Companies' Rocketing Profits

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Several of the nation's largest oil producing companies, including Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) and Gulf Oil, have reported first quarter earnings considerably higher than a year ago.

Gulf said yesterday its first quarter figure at $290 million, or $1.49 per share, up 76 per cent over the 1973 quarter when income was $165 million, or 80 cents a share.

Indiana Standard's first quarter figures for 1974 were even more impressive with estimated earnings of $210 million, 81 per cent higher than for the same period the previous year. The per share figures were $3.13, compared with $1.74 last year for the same three months.

The Standard report attributed the major portion of the increase to what it termed higher foreign petroleum earnings and increased profits from chemical operations.

Ashland Oil Inc., Ashland, Ky., reported a 40.5 per cent increase in earnings in the six months ended March 31 to $2.15 a share from $1.50 a year ago. Net income was $53.8 million against $38.3 million a year ago. Earnings for the second quarter were 75 cents a share up from 61 cents a year ago.

Commenting on the public interest in oil company earnings Indiana chairman John E. Swearingen said such interest was proper, "but earnings cannot be viewed in isolation. The purposes to which they are applied is an essential element in assessing their reasonableness and adequacy.

"It is misleading to talk of record earnings without at the same time talking about the record programs to find and produce more oil and gas that such earnings make possible."

In Pittsburgh, Gulf Oil Corp. board chairman, Bob R. Dorsey credited the firm's operations outside the United States for the increase.

Dorsey said earnings from Gulf's domestic petroleum operations declined slightly in the first quarter.

He said domestic earnings from all sources rose 3 per cent, but accounted for only 39 per cent of the firm's total earnings for the first period.

In the 1973 first quarter, two-thirds of the firm's profits were earned within the United States, Dorsey said.

Streaker Scolded By British Judge

SOUTHPORT, England (UPI) — A streaker who walked around a block wearing only a green wig and carrying an umbrella deserved to be placed naked in stocks in a public place, a magistrate told the young man yesterday.

"Then people could throw stuff at you," Magistrate Kenneth Blundell told Christopher Trowell, 23. "It would be just the place for a crackpot like you."

But the magistrate relented and imposed a more conventional punishment on Trowell — a maximum $240 fine for using insulting behavior.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, April 23, the 113th day of 1974 with 252 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

English dramatist and poet William Shakespeare was born April 23, 1564.

On this day in history:

In 1898, the U.S. Government asked for 125,000 volunteers to fight against Spain in Cuba.

In 1917, almost every performer stepped forward at a mass rally in New York City when asked to volunteer to entertain the troops overseas in World War I.

In 1941, thousands attending an "America First" rally in New York City heard Charles Lindbergh say "It is obvious that England is losing the war." The noted aviator opposed American entry into World War II.

In 1965, more than 200 U.S. planes struck North Vietnam in one of the heaviest raids of the war.

A thought for the day: Roman poet Horace said, "The brief span of life forbids us to cherish long hope."

WINNING BRIDGE

Giving Up Gracefully Sometimes Can Help To Save A Contract

Part of the art of playing bridge is knowing when to give up gracefully. If there's no way to win a trick, see if you can control which opponent takes it.

NOT THE BEST

West's jump to four diamonds is not recommended, but it's not outlandish. The bidding is reported as it actually took place at several tables in a recent tournament.

West opened the ace of diamonds and continued with the queen of diamonds at the second trick. All very normal.

SECOND TRICK

One unwary declarer put up dummy's kind of diamonds at the second trick. This play could not gain. West surely had a seven-card suit for his jump to four diamonds, and this meant that East would surely ruff the second diamond if dummy played the king.

East returned a spade, and now South had to lose a spade and a club. Down one.

SAVE THE KING

What can you do to save the king of diamonds? Not athing. But you can save your contract by keeping the king of diamonds one trick longer.

When West leads the queen of diamonds at the second trick play low from dummy. East cannot gain by ruffing, so West wins the second trick. West leads another diamond, and East ruffs to kill dummy's king.

THE BENEFITS

What have you gained? You can overruff East on this third trick. Draw trumps and lead the jack of clubs to establish dummy's long suit. East can get a club trick, but he cannot stop you from discarding the queen of spades on dummy's clubs. The death of a king saves your queen, if you time things properly.

You hold:

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. There is no need to make a shutout bid with such high-card strength of your own. If partner wayts to try for game in no-trump you will be charmed to cooperate. Don't get beyond three no-trump with a long minor suit that may well produce seven fast tricks.

Buon Gusto Compromise Is Sought

The Fairfax Town Council, grappling with a controversial plan to develop the Buon Gusto Restaurant site off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, last night booted the proposal back to the town design and environmental review board. (Another Fairfax City Council story, page 1.)

The council said the advisory board should seek a compromise with landowner Eleanor McCardle Jean and McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento for development of between 52 and 80 units on the 3.44-acre site.

Mayor Frank R. Egger and Councilman Randall Garrison opposed the action. Egger said that even 52 units "would be outrageous on that property," Garrison thought 52 units should be the "absolute maximum" of development.

Garrison noted the design and environmental review board already has reviewed plans for the site and recommended the development not exceed 52 units.

Attorney Peter Brekhus, representing Mrs. Jean, said that 52 units would not be feasible economically, adding that council approval of such a density would be the death knell for the project. He suggested 65 units be allowed.

Brekhus last night appeared to appeal a design and environmental review board action on the project's environmental impact. The board essentially had accepted the document but urged only 52 units be allowed.

Brekhus pointed out that, while the city general plan calls for a maximum of 52 units on the property, the city zoning ordinance would allow up to 98 units.

"I want to appeal to your sense of fairness," he said, claiming Mrs. Jean was promised by city leaders in the 1960s that appartment units would be approved for the site if a proposal for a shopping center was dropped.

A parade of Fairfax citizens criticized the proposed development, while several citizens backed development plans.

One man said the plan to build 20 one-bedroom apartments and 60 two-bedroom apartments in 15 two-story structures "has all the charm of . . . a ruin," and added the development was "ugly . . . and repugnant."

William Anker of Olema Road cited sewage problems, saying the sewerage system is already overloaded.

Others cited traffic problems and design concerns.

One woman however, declared Mrs. Jean has "property rights and has the right to build as she feels proper." Former councilman Robert R. Souza, noting Mrs. Jean is a 55-year resident of Fairfax, said some development of the site should be allowed or "for God's sake, let's buy it . . . somewhere along the line there are property rights."

At several points during the two-hour hearing on the matter, tempers boiled over and members of the audience engaged in brief shouting matches.

The council majority eventually decided to send the matter back to the design review board, after first rejecting a move by Albert E. Gately and Jean-Marie Mahoney to tentatively set density at 65 units.

Two Nabbed On Charge Of Burglary

Two men were arrested in Rohnert Park yesterday on suspicion of burglary.

Held in lieu of $5,000 bail each to appear tomorrow before Sonoma Municipal Judge Kiernan Hyland were Timothy Emmet McMenamin, 24, of Berkeley, and Paul Gerard Mizzi, 31, of San Francisco.

They were arrested at about 2 a.m. by Rohnert Park police responding to a silent alarm at the Winslow Chevron station at 4990 Commerce Boulevard.

Police reported finding the two men in the process of loading about $2,000 worth of station equipment into their car.

The station wagon also contained about $500 worth of meats, cheeses and cigarettes, police said, which came from a burglary several hours earlier at the snack bar on the Rohnert Park golf course.

Legislators Propose That Stokes Be Fired

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Twenty San Francisco Bay Area legislators today in effect called for the firing of B.R. Stokes, general manager of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART).

Two resolutions signed by the lawmakers were presented to the BART Board of Directors at a hearing of the Senate Public Utilities Committee.

The resolutions stated that it was in "the interest of the state that new management be assured by BART's board of directors before any state funds or authorizations or any new revenue source are committed for BART's use."

BART faces the possibility that it will have to shut down this fall unless it receives additional funds.

Nello J. Bianco, president of the BART board, said "while I personally believe that a new general manager for BART is necessary, the near prospect of a system shutdown will not necessarily be changed by the dismissal of the current general manager."

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, said BART is four years behind schedule and "almost a half a billion dollars over estimated cost."

Alquist asked, "would any reasonable person deny that at least a significant portion of the delay or cost increase is due to mismanagement."

Black Unit Joins Hunt For 'Zebra'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police escalated their stop-and-search manhunt for the "Zebra" killers today despite a protest demonstration in which Mayor Joseph Alioto was rapped on the head with a picket sign and spat upon.

An elite 30-man team of black detectives was sent out in an undercover search of the city for the unknown black gunmen who have shot 12 persons to death and wounded six more in apparently random attacks on white persons.

The undercover team, drawn from all departments of the police, joined scores of other officers assigned to the "Zebra" search.

Late yesterday about 300 persons demonstrated at the city hall against the widespread stopping of black men on the basis of an artist's sketch of a suspect in the random killings.

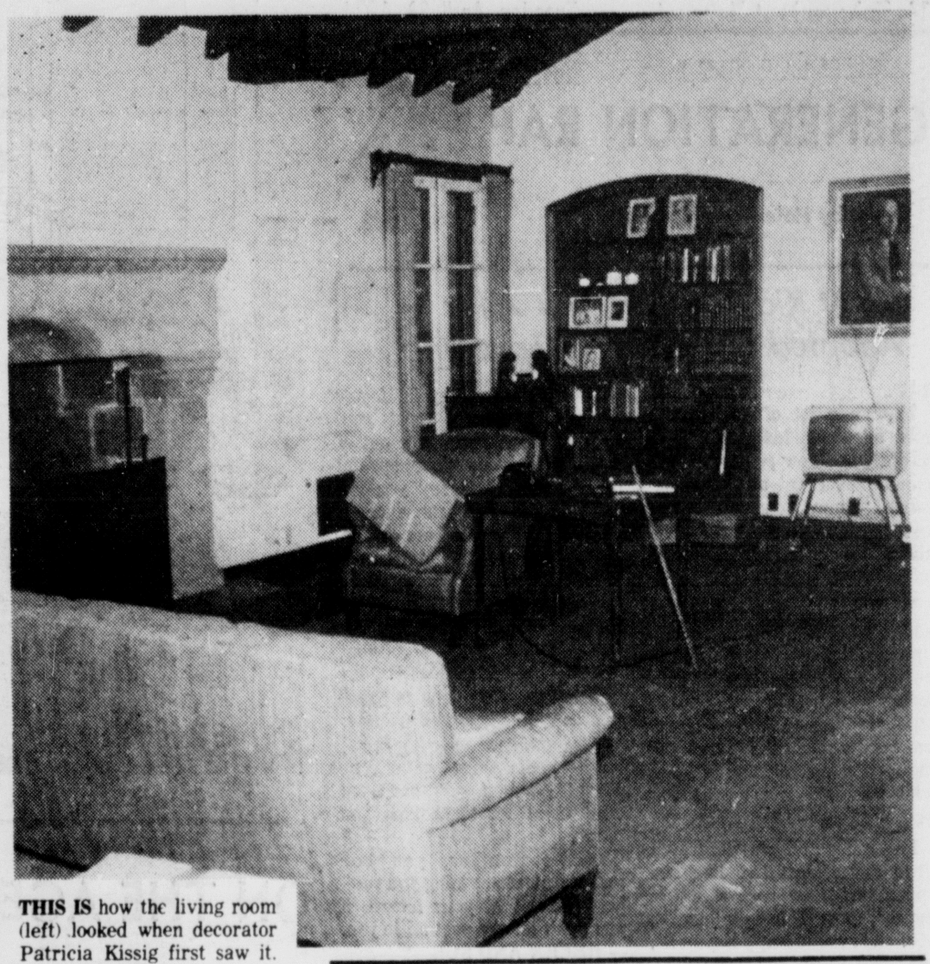
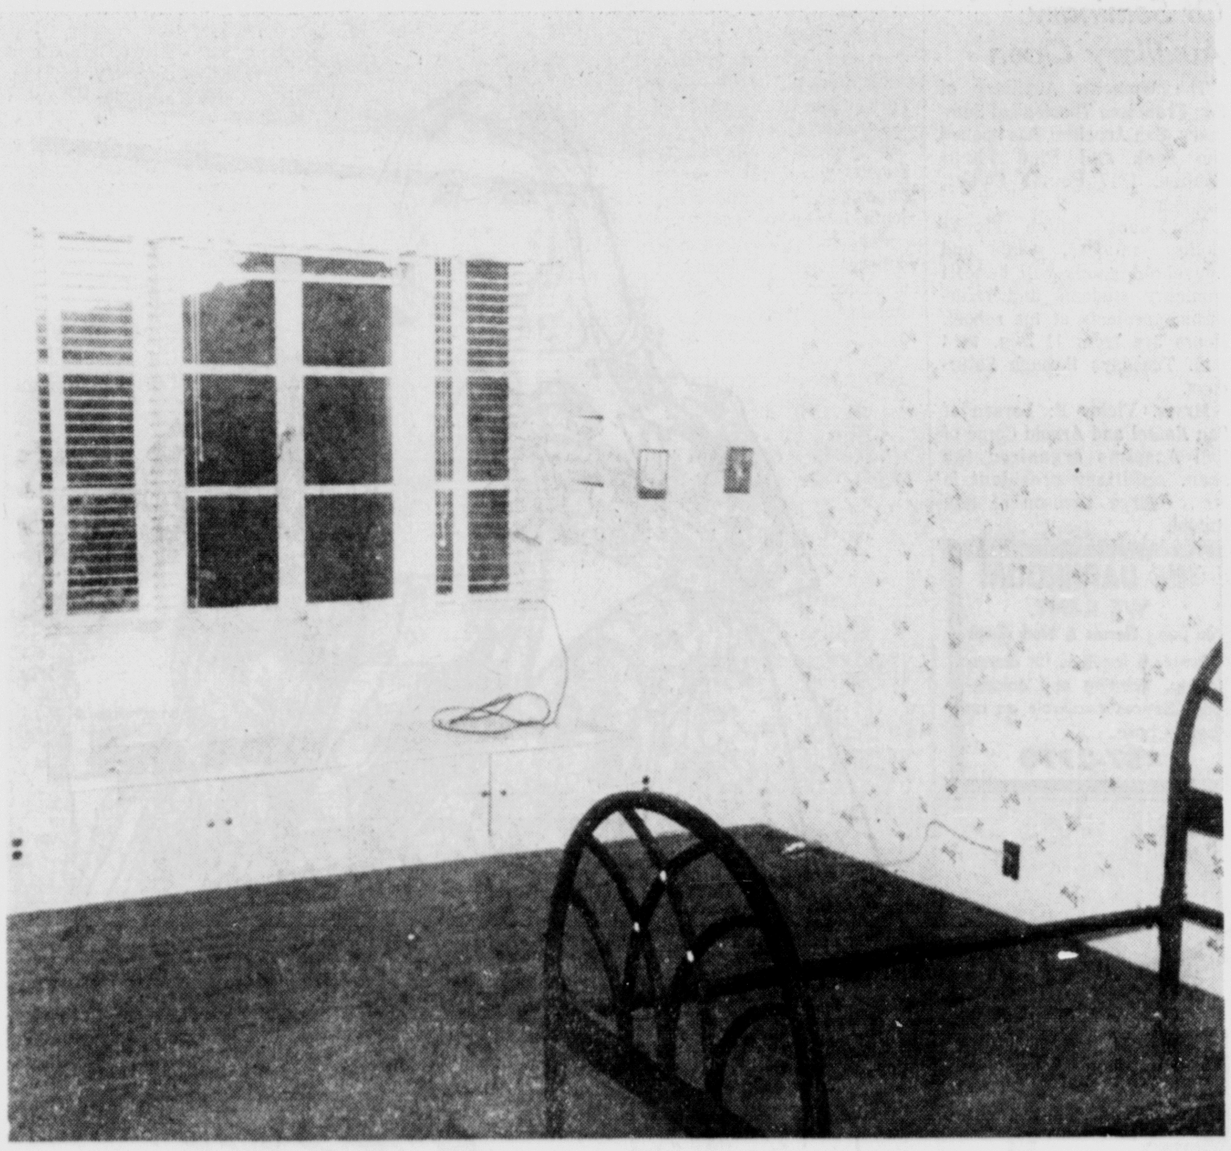
DESIGNERS SHOWCASE

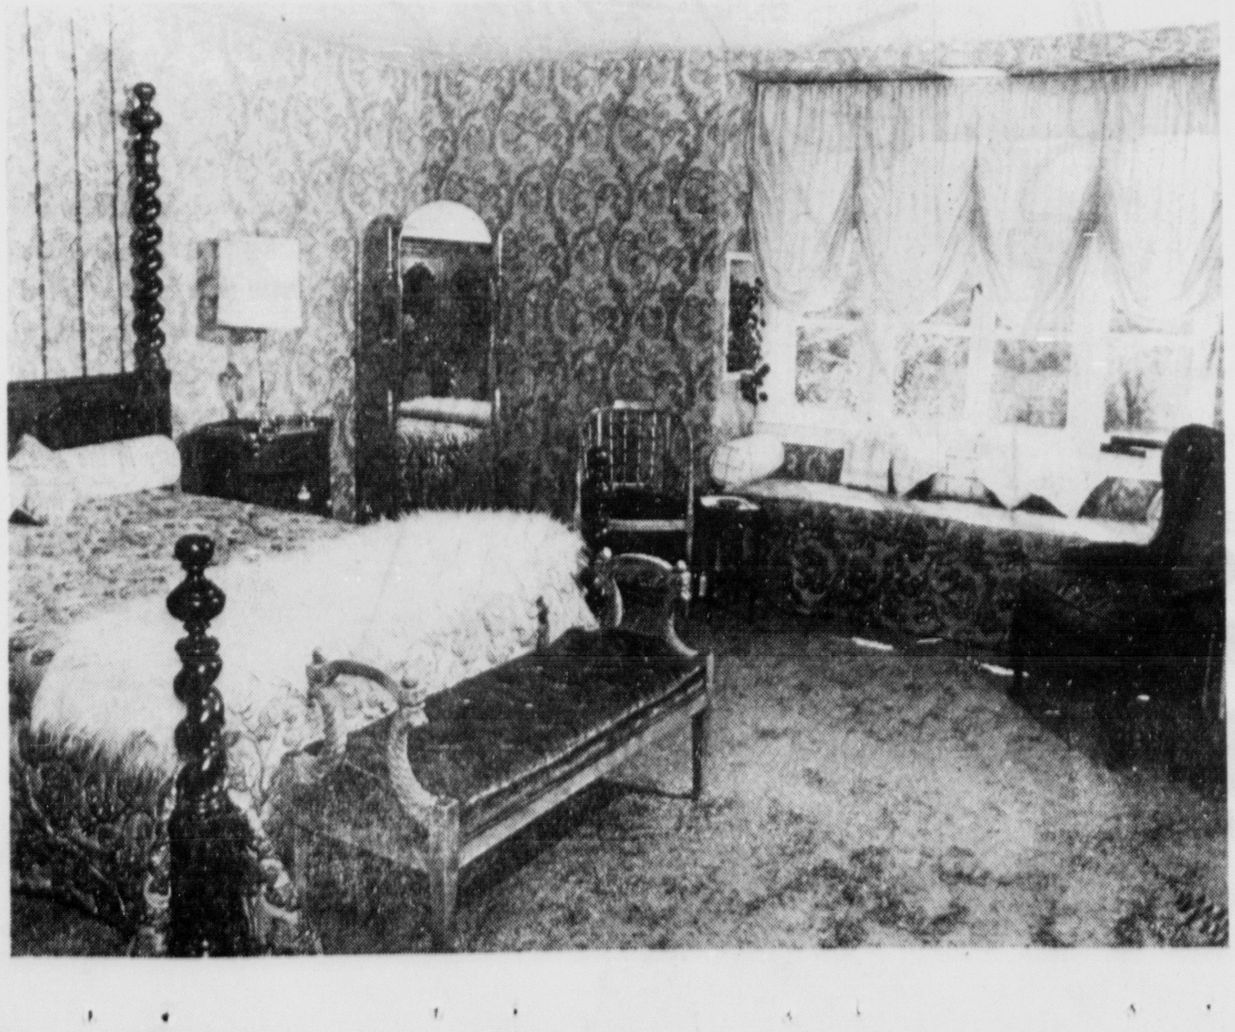
Interior decorator Patricia Kissig of Larkspur arranges a floral bouquet in the room she decorated for the Marin Designers Showcase. Colors of lime green and deep blue predominate in the room. Furnishings and accessories are an eclectic collection of contemporary, country French, English and Spanish.



THIS IS how the living room (left) looked when decorator Patricia Kissig first saw it. In Monte Alegrege, the estate of the late Vernon Skewes-Cox at 47 Laurel Grove Avenue in Ross, the room is one of 19 decorated by designers for the Marin Designers Showcase, which is open to the public daily through May 11, except Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The home has been vacant since Mrs. Skewes-Cox death last year.



DECORATORS DOROTHY Wright and Jackie Hayes, both of Tiburon, were faced with the room (above), and transformed it into the charming bedroom (below). Looking at the sunny end of the room they "saw" yellow, blue and rust, Mrs. Wright said. The pattern of the bedspread is carried out throughout the room on the cushions covering the window seat, the wallpaper and the draperies that hide an unattractive window behind the bed. The showcase is presented by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin Auxiliary. Before photos are by R.M.D. Childs, after photos by Jim Kean.



KNOWLEDGE IS POWER SERIES

Panel Eyes 'Post Abortion Blues'

By KAREN PETERSON

The woman in her teens and early 20's is "less guilt-ridden" about having an abortion today than an older woman, and in many instances, her feelings of guilt are actually feelings of foolishness for not preventing an unwanted pregnancy, according to panelists from Marin family planning agencies, who spoke last night at the Young Women's Christian Association.

"I'm not sure there are specific post-abortion blues. Some feel blue, others don't. Many have relief," said Hermine Watkins, a nurse practitioner. Other speakers at the Knowledge Is Power program, "Post Abortion Blues," were counselors Verene D'Angeli of Family Planning, Marin Health Department, and Susan Kirby of the Planned Parenthood Association.

Physically the body goes through tremendous changes after an abortion as it does after a pregnancy, said Mrs. Watkins, and any hormonal change can cause emotions of elation or depression. The body "doesn't go back to normal in one day" and there's a need to heal emotionally as well as physically, she said.

The biggest problem, though, is educating and preparing women so they feel "good about what they believe in or what they want to believe in" since society still says "pretty much that an abortion is a no-no," said Mrs. Watkins.

"GUILT IS no longer concerned with morality," said Mrs. Kirby who counsels women under 18 and Miss D'Angeli added that younger people often feel guilty about getting into a situation that would "harass" their parents.

"There's more of a stigma on the married woman," added Mrs. Kirby, "It's more acceptable for the teen-ager" to have an abortion.

While the majority of women interviewed by Miss D'Angeli are between 18 and 25, some are in the 40's. And a surprising number of these women have not been using contraceptives, she said.

The teen-ager who gets pregnant is often "really not ready to accept the responsibility of sex" or the fact that she is sexually active, and therefore refuses to use contraceptives, said Mrs. Kirby.

It's still the "not going to happen to me syndrome," added a member of the audience.

Both Mrs. Kirby and Miss D'Angeli, who stressed they never impose their opinions on anyone they interview, try to see the women after the abortion. The rate of return is a "sketchy" 10 to 15 per cent, said Miss D'Angeli.

The abortion "scene now has a healthy, rosy look compared to the absolute horrors before," said a member of the audience. But it will be another generation before the "slave mentality" put on women from society is lifted.

SHE ALSO warned that "we are running a great risk of going backward" with four anti-abortion bills now ready for discussion in Congress. "There's a strong minority of people who feel that it is indeed murder," she said and added that 100 of the 435 Congressmen have already signed the bills.

"The day after the abortion is the hardest" said another woman in the audience who flew to Puerto Rico seven years ago to have a $700 "illegal" abortion. "It would have hurt (me) more to have the baby," she said of her decision, but added that a second abortion last year was difficult emotionally.

"It's the day after when the realization is there — that's when you need contact," said another woman who said "intellectually" she didn't want to have a child, but emotionally she felt she needed to become pregnant.

"I don't believe in accidental pregnancies," said one woman, "Many times, subconsciously, a woman is looking for something — for the older woman it's something to do, for the younger woman it's rebellion."

That also includes women in their 40's who subconsciously get pregnant as a "last grab at youth," said Miss D'Angeli.

Women have to get "to a place so that they can read their feelings — "who wants to be a mother or who doesn't," said a nurse in the audience.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Don't Kid Yourself; Not All Adopted Children Are Loved

RAP:

There's a lot of gush about how adopted kids are superwanted, and how pregnant girls should never get abortions because "some wonderful childless couple will be deprived of giving a wonderful home to the baby."

Well, I'm adopted and it isn't so wonderful! You see my "parents" expected me to be perfect: smart because my real father and mother were college students; beautiful because my mother is beautiful (they tell me — I'm not allowed to know who they really are); healthy because they were healthy.

Instead, I'm kind of ugly, a little dumb, and I've had two operations that cost a lot of money, plus I have allergies, etc. A real disappointment, see?

Since my un-real parents figure they got cheated, they take it out on me. They begrudge everything they put out for me, and can't wait till I'm grown and gone. I've even heard them "regretting" they ever adopted me. They never stop criticizing. I used to try pleasing them, but I've given up.

Many times I wish my mother had had an abortion. She didn't want me; the people who got me don't want me; and I don't think anyone ever will. Don't kid yourself, people, a lot of us would be better off not born. — WISH I'D NEVER LIVED

DEAR WINL:

If you drown yourself in misery, wishing you had never lived, you're as bad as your "parents" who waste their lives regretting, when they could be turning you into a lovely and loving daughter.

So what if your natural parents, and perhaps your foster parents, may not want you. They're only four people out of many who need your special talents (and don't say you haven't any talents because we all have, if we search them out).

Don't brood on "unwantedness." (It might not even be true.) Instead, go all out to prove how worthwhile you are. Get involved at school (as your interest rises, so will your grades); stop thinking of yourself as "ugly"; make friends; don't emphasize your allergies; try to get along with your parents, but if you can't, at least don't let them turn you bitter.

And remember, you can make almost anything you really want out of your future, if you don't let the past stifle you. — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

In response to "Keeping a Secret," who wondered if she should tell her mother about her father's affair, to speed a much-needed divorce, let me tell about my family.

My mother was a devoted and loving slave to my father for 23 years. The last five, he was heavily involved with someone else. My sisters and I knew, and Mom suspected, but he would never give her straight answers. So when she asked us, we told her. I think she was very relieved to finally know the truth and be able to talk about it with someone.

One day Dad left a note and took off. That was four years ago. Since then she has never had a nervous day and she has never been so close to us girls.

I believe it is the "knowing but not knowing" that drives people into nervous breakdowns. "KAS" should tell her mother. Life is too short to live it with a cheating husband.

Also, a parent in trouble needs to know the children feel involved enough to discuss it. — KATHY

PERSONAL TO "FATHER BOTHERED": It's been said that by the time a son finds out his father was really right, he has a son old enough to disagree with him.

Your Dad isn't as wrong as you think but it may be years before you admit I'm right. — HELEN

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel —or both, in care of this newspaper, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

DESIGN FOR LIVING

The Basket-Cushion-Plant Look

By EMILY MALINO
Distributed by United Feature Syndicate

What's new? What's old? It's hard to tell these days, but does it really matter? My own rule of thumb for good design is whether it works for you.

Trends, after all, aren't real; they are public relations promotions engineered by manufacturers and magazines to sell new (or old) products. You show me a trend, and I'll show you an advertising agency.

There are, however, legitimate waves or styles, what the French call "vague." These come and go, depending on our environmental or psychological needs. For example, in color, we can see revived interest in "new" colors all the time, largely colors that have been out of style for a few years. Our eyes develop a need for these colors and suddenly, they're a trend.

Nostalgia also encourages revivals: the current interest in art deco, for example, is a sentimental journey into a past filled with F. Scott Fitzgerald flappers, blue mirrors, tap dancing and angular plaster decorations.

SOME VAGUES outlast others; a good example of this is what I call the basket-cushion-plant look. This look is all over the place, whether it's city or country, cottage or condominium, north or south, east, west or middle. In fact, one of the most beautiful plant scenes in the world is the new Crown Center Hotel in Kansas City, where I visited a few weeks back.

Take baskets: I've always been a basket freak personally. Baskets are so useful; they can hold anything, from soup to nuts, flowers, plants, yarn, magazines, old newspapers, fruit candy — I could go on ad infinitem.

In my home, for example, I use big sturdy baskets as an informal holding pattern for the two hundred thousand bits of paper, newsprint and mail my husband hoards.

Baskets are also beautiful; they can be an important decoration in any room, full or empty. In a room I designed, for instance, I used a large, flat basket in earth tones over a simple fireplace, while other baskets hold plants, flowers, popcorn and apples. There's even a basket lamp.

Cushions, too, are in. Occasional sofa and bed pillows soften an interior. And floor cushions, a la Japonaise, which have been kicking around for a milennium at least are a new furniture form.

TODAY'S FLOOR pillows are covered in all kinds of things, from left-over scraps of oriental rugs, to provincial prints to needlepoint, embroidery or crocheting. I made a whole set of handy pillows out of one antique comforter that was too torn in spots to restore; it was easy to carve out enough intact quilting for my comforters and in a modern room they are a splendid bit of nostalgia.

And plants; it seems impossible to realize that less than 10 years ago it was a hassle to find good house plants. Today, living, breathing plants have become an essential part of the environmental design of our homes; green plants and small trees, flowering plants, bulbs and dried flowers from last summer.

The good news is that we've learned to combine them. The plants are contained in the baskets; the baskets sit alongside the cushions; everything works with everything to make the best of all possible rooms, a space with the textures, and comforts and colors of a contemporary palace.

Soap Operas Are Mirror Of Life

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't belittle the plots of soap operas. They're a mirror of what's going on. And one of the things going on is the woman's liberation movement, definitely reflected in the daytime serials.

Ask Mary Stuart, who has played one leading lady role for 23 years in the "soaps" — Joanne Tate in "Search for Tomorrow" — about how the women's movement has affected story lines and she answers:

"I think that over-all the series reflect what's going on today. Wives reflect it. We're freer, we're having more fun. Our show has one liberationist character. She's married, she had an abortion before her marriage, she has her career as a lawyer.

"The woman I play used to be a matronly old frump at age 22. She never went any place. Now, she has moved out into the world, has a position as a personnel director. She's having fun. She used to wear house dresses. Now she wears Halstons."

Mrs. Stuart has played the Joanne Tate role since the CBS-TV series went on the air in 1951, a first in the then-new medium.

AS THE SHOW has grown with the years, so has Mary Stuart grown in her outlook.

"I feel differently about myself," she said. "I've stopped playing roles in my own life. I've stopped being nervous about things. I listen. When I talk to young people about acting, I tell them, 'Listen. Listen.'

"When I was married, I used to turn my paycheck over to my husband, then ask him for a dollar for lunch.

"Dumb! A man's ego doesn't need that."

Mrs. Stuart's marriage broke up 10 years ago and the divorce started her on a second career in music.

Her children, Cynthia, now 18, and Jeffrey, 17, had given her a guitar for Christmas.

"I needed company," she said, "and a guitar is a lot of company."

She also turned to singing and composing. Now, Bell Records has issued her first album, with the actress singing many of her own compositions. She also books an occasional benefit concert and a recent one at Catawba College in North Carolina was a sellout.

MARY STUART
'Soap opera' star

"WE KNOW from fan letters that about 25 per cent of our viewers are students," she said. "But it was something else to sing for them."

Fan mail to the show indicates that the other viewers run about 25 per cent men, 25 per cent elderly, and the rest the women at home, usually the ones with small children.

"Watching the appeal of the soaps for 23 years —I don't mind your calling them soaps if you smile —I think their mystique is that people can take what they need from them.

"Everyone needs an emotion. The story may be far-fetched, but the relation of people and character is terribly real. Viewers are sort of in a box with us or just good friends who dropped in for company."

Blonde, blue-eyed Mary Stuart is hardly the "small town girl who came to the big city to find happiness," as many serial plots run.

She was born in Miami, grew up in Tulsa, and did some motion pictures before she landed the role of Joanne "by dumb luck." Her fiance invited her and a friend to dinner at a restaurant and her fiance didn't show up.

But the friend did and the two dined together. He turned out to be Roy Windsor, early producer of the show.

More than 5,500 shows later, Mrs. Stuart says, "It's all been a very good trip, really."

Older, Wiser Women Seen In Next Century

BOSTON (AP) — Older and wiser may well be the way to describe the 21st Century woman, one expert says.

By the year 2000, the median age for women will be about 35 and the average woman will be better educated in a greater variety of fields. So predicts W. Scane Bowler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., a national financial services organization.

Bowler said a woman in the year 2000 will live longer, benefiting from major medical discoveries and will be in significantly better health during her senior years. Consequently, he adds, two careers will be possible: pre-and post-retirement.

Woman, he adds, will remain in school longer, taking advantage of community colleges and technical training facilities. New teaching techniques utilizing computer technology will enable her to learn at home as well, he said.

Women will make up 45 per cent of the work force of the future as compared to today's 39 per cent, Bowler predicts, adding, "Careers once reserved for men will now be open to female workers, particularly crafts and trades."

He added that a woman's earning power will not yet match her numerical strides forward, but she will be closing the gap by moving out of traditional female low-paid jobs.

Bowler said women, who will be older when they marry, will have two children. Technological developments in household management will make it easier, he added, to combine child rearing with outside employment.

Bowler said also that the 21st Century woman will be conscientious about planning future family security as longer life spans will require more meaningful long-term budgeting.

Five Senior Girls To Receive Scholarships

Five graduating Marin high school senior girls will receive $100 scholarships from the Marin County Panhellenic Association, according to Betty Celia, president.

The awards will be given on the basis of scholarship and leadership to girls seeking admission to four year colleges or universities where Panhellenic sororities are represented.

Last year Panhellenic awarded three scholarships, and it increased the number to five this year after a successful March fund-raising gourmet cooking series, Mrs. Celia said.

Applications may be obtained through the students' high school counselors and must be returned by May 1 to Mrs. William W. DiGrazia, 4916 Ranch Road, Tiburon.

Applicants will be invited to a Greek-themed party at the home of Mrs. Celia in San Rafael on May 4.

Students Will Present Play By Shakespeare

Students at the North Bay School in Sausalito will present Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Campbell Hall of Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito.

Libby Colman, a teacher at North Bay who has a Ph.D. degree in the history of drama from Georgetown University in Washington D.C., is directing the play. Dr. Colman has edited and shortened the play but retained the Elizabethan speeches.

Barbara Harriman is assistant director and Elizabeth Wilkinson and Judy Siskind are the costume and set designers.

Veterans Chief To Leave Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donald E. Johnson is planning to resign as head of the Veterans Administration, and the indications are strong that President Nixon's top aide asked him to quit.

Johnson has been under criticism from his fellow World War II veterans for the way the VA has been running its hospitals and from Vietnam-era GI's, including the President's son-in-law, who had problems with the distribution of educational benefits.

Johnson's troubles apparently came to a head yesterday when Gen. Alexander Haig, Nixon's chief of staff, met for about an hour with Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., along with Reps. Olin Teague, D-Tex., and John P. Hammerschmidt, R-Ark, all members of veterans' affairs committees.

Teague told reporters afterwards that he told Haig "there would be trouble with the VAas long as Mr. Johnson was there and that he should be relieved."

"Our meeting today," said Cranston, "has been the first direct sign that the President has come to grips with the absolutely massive nature of the VA's problems and that he wishes to resolve these problems in the most rapid and effective manner."

DONALD E. JOHNSON
Did Nixon push?

Haig then met with Johnson for 30 minutes. The White House would not say what happened at the meeting, but Johnson later issued this statement:

"I have today informed Gen. Alexander E. Haig, White House chief of staff, of my intention to resign as administrator of veterans' affairs. I expect to submit my formal resignation in the near future."

Administration sources said Johnson, 49, had considered resigning by June, but hesitated to quit under fire.

Prefers Death To Marriage

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — For nearly two decades, Domingo Gasca Araujo, 52, a shoemaker, had been promising Virginia Rosas Gonzalez, 42, that they would get married.

As time went by, Gasca fathered 17 children by her.

Last week the shoemaker, under increasing pressure by his older children as well as Viriginia, finally agreed to be married yesterday.

Sunday night, as she made final preparations for the wedding and a post-wedding fiesta, Gasca went quietly into the bathroom and and killed himself with a bullet in the head.

Nude Cyclists

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Police yesterday said they booked a 34- year-old author and a 27-yearold woman for bicycling in the nude side by side along a city avenue.

Computer To Help Select Grand Jury

The first of several cullings that will reduce 347 applicants for the 1974-75 grand jury to 19 names will be done by a computer.

Superior court administrator Howard Hansen today said Marin's superior court judges have decided to let the computer select at random 115 names.

Aides then will prepare a one-paragraph summary of each applicant's qualifications and personal data, and the judges will meet May 10 to reduce that number to 40 or 50.

After personal interviews, the judges will put 30 names into a drum and 19 grand jurors will be chosen, said Hansen.

As a result of a concerted effort to choose a jury as representative as possible of Marin's population, the 347 applicants represent the greatest number in the county's history.

The expanded recruiting process is an outgrowth of the quashing of indictments against the San Quentin Six in January in which a visiting judge ruled the 1970 grand jury did not represent a broad cross-section of the county's population.

Ram Is Father Posthumously

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — One of two male bighorn sheep, one or both of which were killed by poachers bullets last fall, is believed to be the father of a lamb born last week in the Lava Beds National Monument in northeast Siskiyou County.

The death of the two adult rams, one on Oct. 20 and the other about Nov. 24, left only a yearling ram at that time in the experimental flock. Fish and game biologists consider it improbable the yearling fathered the lamb born Friday.

The department of Fish and Game said yesterday that last week's birth brought the number of sheep to 18 in the flock

Marin City Market Plan Wins Approval

A master plan for a new food market in Marin City was approved unanimously yesterday by the Marin County planning commission. (Another planning commission story, page 1.)

The new market has been proposed by Daniel Hayden, whose present market on Drake Avenue has been condemned by the county health department. He operated that market, the only one in the community, for 16 years.

His master plan calls for a new market in the Marin City redevelopment area slated for a 10-acre shopping center. It will front on Donahue Street at the entrance to Marin City where a flea market occasionally operates.

Marin County Planning Commission Also:

REZONING — Concluded rezoning the Sleepy Hollow Ridge to allow fewer possible homesites. About 60 small parcels on the eastern end of the ridge were affected by yesterday's action. They were zoned for one-acre lots instead of 10-acre lots as originally recommended. The lands are within the open space boundaries of the county general plan.

GENERAL PLAN — Heard a preliminary report from Planning Director Werner Von Gundell that he disagrees with about 25 per cent of the consultant's economic impact report of the county general plan. He said he is continuing to study the comments he doesn't agree with, such as a proposal the public works department be charged with carrying out the plan, and will report later.

MEETING — Asked the county's economic consultant, Angus N. McDonald, to attend a special meeting May 13 and 16 to explain his economic study of the county plan.

DATA BANK — Heard a report on a proposed environmental data bank being encouraged by the environmental committee of the City-County Planning Council of Marin. The data bank — or "environmental intelligence center" as the council refers to it — would catalog information on various parts of the county."

June 15 Deadline

Tickets for the Marin Art and Garden Center's summer festival July 6 and 7 will be available at the center in Ross at a reduced price through June 15. The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting a May 15 deadline.

Slander Suit Of $1 Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Cal Worthington, one of the best known used-car salesmen in the nation, filed a $1 million slander suit yesterday against NBC-TV and a television cartoon firm, charging they used him as the basis for a crooked car dealer in a cartoon.

Worthington is known throughout the Southern California area for his antics with animals on late-show auto commercials, and throughout the United States because California-based comedians do satires on his appearances.

Worthington, in a superior court suit against the network and Hanna-Barbera Productions said the character of "Smiling Sam, the auto man" in the series "Wait Till Your Father Gets Home" is based on him, and portrays him as a man who swindles and defrauds car buyers, lacks integrity and is dishonest, perhaps criminal, in his business dealings.

Evidence Argument Stalls Mitchell Trial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Progress of the Mitchell-Stans criminal conspiracy trial was stalled today by legal argument over the admissibility of evidence about telephone calls and meetings of the two defendants.

After nearly two hours of going over listings made by the government from the logs of the two defendants and of arguments in his chambers, federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi called in the jury, explained the situation, and sent them out for an early lunch. He indicated that defense summations, which had been scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., would not start until 2 p.m.

The judge previously had indicated that the case of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans would go to the jury late tomorrow, but the change in schedule raised the possibility that the jury would begin deliberations Thursday.

The argument arose out of a government attempt to enter into evidence a listing of the scheduled phone calls and meetings during several months of 1972 and 1973. The defense argued that the mere scheduling was no proof that the calls and meetings ever took place.

Never before have two former presidential cabinet officers been on trial together, and the only previous trials of former cabinet officers took place in 1926.

Mitchell and Stans are charged with conspiracy, obstruction of justice, and perjury in allegedly trying to impede a federal investigation of international financier Robert L. Vesco

PROTECTION FOR THE INJURED

No Tam Teachers Will Be Released

By BILL ROBERTS

Making good a promise made last month, Tamalpais High School District trustees last night voted to eliminate a $600,000 deficit in next year's budget without firing any teachers or administrators.

Acting unanimously and receiving prolonged applause from an audience of about 150 persons, trustees told Supt. Robert D. Torrey to notify 36 district teachers and administrators that they will be rehired next year.

The 36 previously had been notified they might not be rehired as trustees earmarked 16 programs for possible elimination next year to meet the deficit. But at that time, trustees pledged to seek other budget cuts which would allow the teachers and administrators to keep their jobs.

"If we accept the proposition that the quality of education starts with the teacher . . . then I think we have enough material before us to say that we will not release these teachers," said Jerrold M. Ladar, board president.

Lader tempered his remark with a warning that had become familiar during nine previous hearings on the budget deficit: keeping the 36 teachers and administrators will mean all district staff will receive a lower pay raise next year than would have been possible had the 36 been fired.

Torrey told trustees that teachers have not compromised their demand for a 15 per cent salary increase which would add $1.1 million to the deficit. (Several proposals before trustees for balancing the budget, including Torrey's own, grant only a 4 per cent raise.)

Trustees now face the task of weeding through suggested budget cuts which range from reducing telephone expenses to cutting district reserves in the tentative $12.3 million budget for 1974-75. Not only must trustees make cuts to eliminate the $600,000 deficit, but they also must earmark $75,000 in reductions for each 1 per cent pay increase granted to district employees.

"If we end up needing to cut $75,000, I think its very easy to see where that would come from," Ladar noted. "That's 1 per cent."

Although the 36 were spared last night, trustees left unanswered the fate of five district teachers who were hired on one-year contracts for 1973-74. Included in the five is the teacher of the popular auto shop class at Tamalpais High School.

Because the five were on temporary contracts, releasing them does not require the elaborate notification procedure which applied to the other 36 teachers and administrators. Trustees indicated that the five contracts would be reviewed individually in the course of regular budget deliberations which begin next month.

Redwood High Given Extra Vacation Time

Different school calendars, one for Redwood High School and another for the other schools in the Tamalpais High School District, were approved last night by district trustees.

The Redwood calendar differs from that of Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake high schools in allowing an extra winter vacation which has been dubbed a "ski vacation" in elementary districts which adopted similar schedules.

Proponents of the Redwood calendar argued that since the elementary districts which surround the high school have already adopted the extra vacation, families in the area would be taking the two days following Lincoln's birthday for skiing trips. If the calendar was not adopted for Redwood, the school's average daily attendance would be reduced significantly, they argued.

To compensate for the holiday, students will start classes at Redwood on Sept. 5 while students at Tam and Drake will begin Sept. 10. June 13 will be the last day of school for all students.

Tamalpais High School District Board Also:

HEBREW — Received a petition signed by 18 students asking that a course in Hebrew be offered at Tamalpais High School next year.

HEARING — Received for first hearing a request from the Ross Valley Sanitary District for an easement at Sir Francis Drake High School for sewer repair and recommendations to call for bids on Redwood athletic field-rehabilitation and paving and painting at district schools, all to be adopted May 6.

POLICY — Adopted a policy granting higher placement on salary schedules for teachers who take noncredit college courses or attend district sponsored workshops.

AUDIT — Hired Main Lafrentz and Co. to do the district's 1973-74 audit at a cost not to exceed $7,500.

READING — Authorized spending not more than $6,447 of federal Vocation Education Act funds to obtain specialized reading instruction for students with low reading ability who are taking shop at Tamalpais High School.

SALE — Authorized sale of four wood lathes and a vertical printing press which have been declared surplus by district schools.

COURSES — Approved for first hearing new courses in career typing, college preparatory English workshop, calculus, violence in America (social studies) and cross-age teaching and independent study in the natural environment. All will be adopted May 6.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to May 6 at 8 p.m. in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Jurors Wait To Testify If Needed

Seventy-nine members of the panel from which the current grand jury was chosen stayed close to telephones today, waiting for summons to testify in a court case involving two San Quentin inmates.

The 79 had been subpoenaed by the county public defender to appear today in Marin superior Court.

But a visiting judge, Raymond Thompson of Orange County, yesterday ruled the panelists were not to come to court until a hearing is held on whether the subpoenas should be quashed. That hearing was scheduled for today.

There was no indication how long the 79 panelists must be on call to testify.

The public defender has asked Thompson to toss out indictments against the inmates on grounds the current grand jury excluded certain segments of Marin's population and thus did not represent a cross-section of the community.

The jurors are needed to testify on what economic, social and political groups they belong to.

Under indictment are Marcello G. Baeza, charged with murdering another inmate, and Guillermo Bermudez, accused of stabbing a fellow prisoner.

Judge Thompson was to hear a motion to quash the subpoenas and release the jury panelists from testifying this morning. Deputy Dist. Atty. John D. Posey said the public defender can get the information he needs from county records.

Set for tomorrow is argument on a motion to eliminate Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best from hearing any part of the cases on grounds he is prejudiced.

The public defender's office originally sent questionnaires to the 79 jury panelists in an effort to avoid bringing them into court.

But Judge Best ruled any personal questioning dealing with the personal lives, finances or affiliations of the panelists must be asked in open court.

Armed Robbery Charge Filed

A 23-year-old Petaluma man was charged in Sonoma Municipal Court yesterday with armed robbery and was ordered to appear on May 3 for a preliminary hearing.

Paul Gary Chaney, of 328 Post Street, was charged with holding up Ron Heher, 34, of San Bruno, at gunpoint on April 2 while Heher was parked in his camper truck at 8 West El Rose Drive. Neher reported that his wallet and $30 was taken.

Chaney was arrested by Petaluma police Thursday after Heher told them the man who had robbed him was drinking in the Hide-Away bar at 128 Kentucky Street.

He is confined in the Sonoma County jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

A Guilty Verdict In Ranger Death

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal jury yesterday found Veronza Bowers, 28, guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of ranger Kenneth Patrick at Point Reyes National Seashore last summer.

Judge Leo Brewster of U.S. District Court set Bowers' sentencing for 10 a.m. Friday. The convicted man faces a mandatory life sentence under federal law.

The jury of nine women and three men returned the verdict after deliberating nine and a half hours. They began their deliberations Friday morning, then went home for the weekend and resumed discussions again yesterday.

Patrick, 40, was the first National Park Service ranger ever to be murdered in the line of duty.

His body was discovered on fog-shrouded Mount Vision road early in the morning of Aug. 5. He had been shot three times, once through the heart.

An investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation led to the arrest of Bowers, Alan Veale, 24, and Jonathan Shoher, 28. Veale and Shoher are awaiting separate trials.

At the time of his arrest in connection with the murder, Veale already was in jail on a charge of robbing a Berkeley bank. After two trials, he was convicted of bank robbery and sentenced to prison.

During his robbery trials, Veale said he would not testify in the murder case. But on April 3, the day before the start of the Bowers trial, Veale gave a signed confession, naming Bowers as the trigger man and implicating himself and Shoher.

Veale testified during the murder trial that he, Shoher and Bowers went to Point Reyes on Aug. 5 to hunt deer with crossbows — an activity illegal in the national park at any time of the year.

He said that when the ranger stopped them, shined a flashlight in their car and spotted crossbows and guns, Bowers shot and killed him.

During the trial Bowers' wife, Stephanie, testified that her husband was not at the park that morning but was home in bed in Homestead Valley.

Bowers' attorney, Marvin Stender, said he will appeal the verdict.

Prosecutor in the case was U.S. Attorney John Milano.

Warm Springs Study Labeled Inadequate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An engineering geologist described as the world's foremost authority on earthquake risks to manmade structures said yesterday he considered the studies made for the proposed Warm Springs Dam inadequate.

Lloyd S. Cluff of Oakland said he was not satisfied with the studies the U.S. Corps of Engineers has done to evaluate the earthquake activity of the Dry Creek fault and the Healdsburg fault in the vicinity of the dam 14 miles along Dry Creek from Healdsburg in Sonma County.

Cluff was asked by Paul Kayfetz, attorney for the environmental groups and individuals bringing suit against the dam, whether he would "feel comfortable" having his family live in Healdsburg down the canyon from the dam without further geological analysis.

Over objections from Assistant U.S. Attorney Rodeny Hamblin and after U.S. District Judge Spencer Williams limited the question to what Cluff knows of the Corps of Engineers studies, the geologist replied:

"No."

Cluff was to testify further as to whether construction of the $1.4 million rolled earth dam will be further delayed. Work is presently held up pending determination of the adequacy of its environmental impact study.

The dam is scheduled to be 319 feet above the existing stream bed and would form a lake with a capacity of 381,000 acre feet.

It would provide flood control, recreational facilities and a fish hatchery.

Robert Henn, another attorney for the plaintiffs, said his clients would attempt to show that the environmental impact statement did not conform to law and has inadequately discussed earthquake effects, mercury poisoning, geothermal problems and asbestos poisoning and failed to tell what the effect of the new water supply would be on the population of the area.

Kayfetz said in his opening statement and in examining Cluff, the first witness, that the geological studies of the dam were made prior to 1967 and there had been an upheaval in the state of the science of geological engineering since the near failure of the Lower Van Norman Dam in the San Fernando Valley in 1971.

He said that dam had been certified as "completely safe" by the state of California, yet it nearly broke to send a "cataclysmic" wall of water down the canyon where 80,000 people could have died.

Since then, Kayfetz said, authorities have installed more rigorous standards for deeming an earthquake fault "inactive" and have instituted "dynamic analyses" in determining the safety of dams.

Magee Judge Says Jurors' Part Is Moot

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The judge in the Ruchell Magee kidnap case yesterday ruled that the some 180 Marin citizens who served on grand juries from 1962 to 1970 or were considered for them, may not be ordered into court.

Judge William A. Ingram in quashing the subpoenas for the former grand jury panelists said that it was a "piecemeal" attack on the grand jury — and that the matter already had been decided.

Santa Clara County Deputy Public Defender Frank D. Katz had sought to question the Marin residents about their finances, social status, national origin and race.

He had said, though, that if they filled out a questionnaire they might avoid a trip to court here.

The state Attorney General's office, which is prosecuting Magee in his second trial in connection with the August 1970 shoot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice, successfully argued that the matter was moot.

In 1971, lengthy hearings were conducted in Marin Superior Court in connection with Magee's codefendant, Angela Davis, to determine if the grand jury which indicted her and Magee was racist.

At the end of the hearings, which included testimony by four judges who said they had sought out blacks when nominating grand jurors, Judge Richard E. Arnason ruled that the grand jury was not unrepresentative of the community.

He said that no evidence had been presented to show that "any of the judges had consciously, deliberately, intentionally arbitrarily or otherwise discriminated against any definable class" of citizens.

Miss Davis and her attorneys had charged that black, young and poor persons had been excluded by superior court judges in making nominations for the grand jury.

Miss Davis, after her case was severed from Magee's, later was acquitted of murder and conspiracy charges following a trial here.

Magee then stood trial in San Francisco, but a jury last April deadlocked 11-1 for acquittal on the murder charge and 11-1 for conviction on the kidnap.

He is scheduled for retrial beginning May 28.

He now faces only a kidnap charge stemming from the violence which ended in the death of Judge Harold J. Haley, after the judge, three women jurors and then Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas were kidnaped from a Marin courtroom.

Open House Is Seeking Support

Marin Open House, the outpatient drug abuse treatment center, is seeking volunteer retired businessmen to help form several small businesses to support the Open House program.

The center anticipates a cutback in federal funds over the next several years, and to stay in existence Open House will have to generate money of its own, according to Mike Walti, spokesman for the center.

He also said that the new enterprises would help reforming drug addicts by providing work opportunities for them.

Volunteer Bureau Honors Two 'Angels'

By THERON A. NEWELL

Two "angels of mercy" were honored last week for their work for the Volunteer Bureau of Marin.

The work which Hal McDaniel and William F. Berry did was so outstanding and of such value to the needy of the county that the special tribute was paid to them at the 10th annual luncheon of the bureau.

McDaniel, the kind of man who goes far beyond what is normally expected of a volunteer worker, once took an elderly lady from the hospital to her home in the housing project at Pilgrim Park, what would have been an ordinary assignment, but . . .

When he got her home, the lady found that one of two Colorado blue spruce trees which she had planted and nurtured at her home, had been cut down, probably by some unthinking person who wanted it for a Christmas tree.

Not content with just consoling her, McDaniel went into action. He scrounged around until he found a nursery with a similar blue spruce tree in a tub . . . and a generous nurseryman. (It was all decorated for Christmas and the nurseryman yielded to McDaniel's persuasion that it become a gift to the elderly lady.)

"We moved that tree to her home without the loss of so much as a string of tinsel," he said. "When she saw it, she cried for joy."

Nor does he think anything of giving up a holiday or time to help others.

Just show him a need, and McDaniel goes into action. Through the bureau, he heard of an elderly woman in Marin City whose daughter had died, leaving six children. The woman was doing the washing for those six children by hand. It was suggested that McDaniel might find her a washing machine.

Within 10 minutes, he located a dealer happy to give one to her. "Could she use a drier too?" the merchant asked.

"Anyone with a washing machine needs a drier," McDaniel answered. He got both and took them to the woman's home and installed them.

He and his wife, Rosalee, live at 545 Wilson Avenue, Novato.

About 18 months ago, he said, he was "between jobs," and wanted something to do. So he went to the Volunteer Bureau. Soon he was given jobs of all sorts for the bureau.

Barry has put in about 1,500 hours and driven 12,000 miles helping the elderly and indigent to keep doctor appointments.

"Each person takes about an hour of time and 10 miles of driving," he said. He averages six to eight persons a day, taking them to and from their medical appointments.

"These people are all grateful because without outside help, they could not get to the doctor," he said.

Sometimes his help goes beyond just driving them in his car. He has been called on to help them get dressed, lift them out of bed into wheelchairs and then lift them into the car.

Barry and his wife, Virginia, live at 140 Vista Grande, San Anselmo.

Barry, 56, had his own lithography busness until he retired six years ago.

"I had time on my hands and people told me about the Volunteer Bureau. Little by little I became attached to it until I was driving the people to see their doctor six days a week," he said.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Oil Firm Controls Beaten

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill placing major oil companies under the regulations of the state Public Utilities Commission has been rejected by the Assembly Commerce and Public Utilities Committee.

The measure (AB3142) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, was turned back yesterday on a 4-2 vote—one short of approval. However, the committee granted Meade a chance to have his bill reconsidered at a later date.

The bill only would affect about eight major oil companies which control production and retail sale of oil products.

Meade said the oil industry had failed to act in the public interest the past several months by permitting gas prices to double while the supply dwindled. He said the industry likely would be more careful to meet public needs if it had to report to the commission.

HOUSING TAXES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Owners of "substandard" rental housing would lose their regular tax breaks until the housing is repaired under legislation which passed the Senate yesterday.

The bill (AB475) by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, was returned on a 27-9 vote to the assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

QUITS POT PANEL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican Sen. H.L. Richardson has resigned from the Senate Select Committee on the Control of Marijuana because he said the four-member panel is promoting "the liberalizing of marijuana."

Richardson, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, pointed out yesterday that committee Chairman George Moscone, D-San Francisco, was introducing a bill (SB2157) to reduce the penalties for possessing small amounts of marijuana.

The Arcadia Republican said Moscone's action came as "no surprise."

"The pro-pot slant of the committee was obvious from the beginning," said Richardson, adding that the panel ignored testimony of experts about "the dangers of dabbling in marijuana use."

SHIELD LAWS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation extending protections of the state's newsmen's "shield laws" to magazine writers has won unanimous approval from the Assembly.

The bill (AB3148) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, was sent to the Senate yesterday on a 54-0 vote without debate.

CAPITOL STUDY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure urging a study of removing all offices from the Capitol except those dealing with the legislature was approved yesterday by the Senate on a 27-2 vote.

The resolution (ACR173) by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, was returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Kids In Substandard Housing Main Lead Poisoning Victims

Lead poisoning (plumbism) is relatively common in infants and children living in substandard housing. Many of these youngsters have slightly above normal limits of lead in their systems, but no evidence of poisoning, in that they have no symptoms.

This situation has created many highly emotional sociologic controversies, mainly because there is fear that some of the children will suffer irreversible brain damage. Those at risk are children who have consumed large amounts of lead over long periods of time.

THE SOCIOECONOMIC aspect enters the picture because most of the toddlers and children ingest lead in paint and plaster from pre-World War II homes and from repainted cribs, furniture, and window sills.

Other sources of the metal include fruit sprayed with insecticides, newspapers, books, toothpaste tubes, face powders, lead soldiers and toys, certain colored crayons, water colors, chalk, magazines printed on recycled paper, and modeling clay.

Lead may also be inhaled from fumes, dust, street dirt, and surface soils. In many neighborhoods where maintenance is poor, children are constantly picking and eating the flakes of old lead-based paint from walls. Pica is the name given a craving for unnatural articles.

MOST OF THE lead enters the body through the stomach and intestines. Lesser amounts come in through the skin or lungs. From the blood it travels to the tissues of the body and is deposited in the bones, liver, kidney, pancreas, brain, hair, nails, and elsewhere. Some is excreted via the kidneys and stool.

While in the circulation, lead causes changes in the blood cells. Destruction of the brain cells also may occur along with nerve damage. Many symptoms are blamed on lead even though the amount in the blood or hair is not too high. Manifestations of plumbism include hyperactivity, psychomotor disturbances, slowness of performance, slight intelligence defects, and personality changes.

IN DEFINITE lead poisoning, there is constipation, abdominal colic, fatigue, headache, muscular aching, anemia, and stippling of certain white cells. A "lead line" is often seen on the gums. X-ray changes also are noted.

Considerable research is being done to find a reliable test to detect lead poisoning in its early stages. This is needed to recognize children who are exposed to lead and prevent them from developing permanent brain damage due to encephalitis.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

SEEDS, APPENDICITIS

A. L. writes: Will eating sunflower seeds cause appendicitis?

REPLY

No. However, anything is possible, and there must be someone who developed appendicitis after eating sunflower seeds.

The Second Century San Rafael Looks Ahead

The Independent-Journal has special plans for Friday, May 17. In conjunction with a week of special activities, including historical tours, concerts, and a gala parade, the I-J will publish a special centennial edition. "The Second Century . . . UNUSUAL ORCHESTRA — Musicians of the Stainless Steel Orchestra rehearse for their May 4 benefit concert at the College of Marin. Their instruments were originated by West Indian musicians who converted prosaic fuel drums into "pans" capable of a wide range of notes.

Steel Band To Perform In Marin

A musical art form which was born when West Indian natives began rhythmic pounding on steel fuel barrels during World War II, then matured in ghettos of New York City, will come to the College of Marin May 4 in a performance by the Stainless Steel Orchestra.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater.

The leader of the orchestra is Andy Narell, son of Murray Narell, director of the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Young Narell, now 20 and a graduate of the University of California in Berkeley, fell in love with the "pans" (as the tuned steel drums are known) while his father was a social worker in New York's Lowest East Side.

The elder Narell started several steel drum groups among the young street gangs of the community. More than 20 such bands sprang up citywide.

Narell had a set of steel drums made for his own family. Andy and his older brother, Jeff, quickly became leading musicians and soon converted their own band to a full-fledged orchestral group with a sound that sometimes resembles strings, sometimes the lighter woodwinds and sometimes an organ.

Before the group, known as the Steel Bandits, disbanded when the Narells moved to Marin, it had performed at Carnegie Hall and Madison Square Garden.

Andy Narell, in his junior high school days, planned to become a nuclear physicist; the steel drums changed his life interest to music.

He now plays a variety of instruments from the piano to the Moog Synthesizer and is a jazz composer. He was a member of the University Symphony and the University Jazz Ensemble at Berkeley. He frequently plays with other artists in recording sessions.

While in college, he organized the Stainless Steel Band among youngsters in the Oakland recreation program. In a little over three years of playing together the group has made more than a score of concert and television appearances. Their music ranges from Bach and Brahms to rock.

Their instruments are the tops of 50-gallon metal drums, transformed from utilitarian objects to music makers by careful denting and stretching of the metal. Narell explained that West Indian musician Ellie Manette discovered that more than 30 different notes could be rung from a properly tuned drum and at least six different pans with varying tonal ranges were developed for orchestral use.

The concert will be a benefit performance for the Jewish Community Center's youth programs in Marin.

Townhouse Project's Impact Ruled Slight

Construction of about 30 townhouses as phase three of the Skylark project in Larkspur would have only two "significant adverse environmental impacts," according to a report on the proposed project: loss of view and loss of open space.

(The project would be next to the existing 454 apartments of the Skylark project.)

Both effects, however, could be mitigated by careful placement of the townhouses on the 7.2-acre site above Magnolia Avenue, the report said.

John E. Roberto, city planning director, today said the report erroneously said that 34 units would be allowed at the site under the city's slope ordinance, whereas 28 is the actual maximum.

Roberto said the mistake could be corrected by the Larkspur Planning Commission when it reviews the report tonight at 8 o'clock in city hall and would not require that the report be redone.

Prepared by Environmental Science Associates of Los Angeles, the 51-page report said the project would add about 80 residents to the city.

Familiar environmental impacts like increased traffic, noise, demand for municipal services, demand for water and use of sewers would be "slight impacts" because of the low number of added residents, the report noted.

Because the project site adjoins a ditch which may be the first sign of an underlying fault, the report recommends a complete geologic report before construction starts in order to determine if a fault does exist and if it could cause the townhouses to slip on the hilly site.

Alternatives to the proposed project were ruled out for various reasons: no project, unacceptable because there is no legal ground to deny the project; public purchase as open space, impractical because of a high estimated cost of the site ($106,000); fewer but more expensive units, unacceptable because it would not provide housing diversity in the town; and commercial use, unacceptable because not allowed under the city's general plan.

Arts Festival Dates Selected

This year's Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival will be held Sept. 28 and 29, according to Tora Garaventa, who has been re-elected festival committee president.

Mrs. Garaventa said that other committee officers recently chosen are: vice president, Maureen Gorman, of 484 Hillside Avenue, Mill Valley; treasurer, Mickey Guerrero, of 8 Fern Avenue, Mill Valley, and recording secretary, Louise Wolmuth, of 626 Robin Drive, Corte Madera.

The committee will meet again on May 15 at 8 p.m. in the Mill Valley Public Library board room.

Old Work, New At Music Festival

"The San Rafael Carnival Souvenir March," first performed in San Rafael in September, 1908, and a new choral work specially commissioned to commemorate the San Rafael Centennial will be performed at the San Rafael City Schools Music Festival at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium at 8 p.m. May 20, as part of the city's 100th birthday celebration.

Earl Zindars of San Francisco, former professor of music at San Francisco State University, has been commissioned to compose the music for the new choral work to lyrics written by Paul K. McMullen of San Rafael tracing the history of San Rafael's past 100 years.

The composition will be performed by the combined choirs of San Rafael and Terra Linda High Schools and San Domenico School in San Anselmo.

The Terra Linda High School Wind Ensemble will perform "The San Rafael Carnival Souvenir March," which was written by "Signor V. DeVivo," according to the surviving sheet music, and commissioned by the management of the Lyric Theater in San Rafael.

The march was written for the San Rafael Labor Day carnival of September 7, 1908, which included a parade, crowning of a queen, a baseball game, tug-of-war races, merry-go-round and other carnival attractions. The music was dedicated to Nettie Koenig, queen of the carnival, who according to newspaper accounts the next day, was crowned in a "spectacular and artistic ceremony . . . after a most exciting contest."

The May 20 music festival, an annual event, is sponsored by the San Rafael Music Council, made up of parent representatives from each School in the San Rafael district.

Other groups that will perform at the festival are the Davidson and Santa Venetia Middle School Bands, directed by Jean Stevens and Melvin Stanley, and the San Rafael High School Band, directed by Charlene Wilkerson. Byron Jones will direct the San Rafael High School Choir, Fred Marett the Terra Linda High School Choir, and Dr. Milton Kelley the guest choir from San Domenico School.

Recreation Preferences Are Sought

The Novato Parks and Recreation Department has mailed 1,000 questionnaires at random to residents, seeking their opinions on recreation.

The findings of the survey will be used in preparing a parks and recreation element for the Novato General Plan, according to parks and recreation director Lester C. Russell.

The parks and recreation commission, in an accompanying letter, asked residents to cooperate and sent along two passes to the city pool at Novato High School by way of thanks.

The survey, prepared with the assistance of the political science department at Sonoma State College, also has a series of questions on political attitudes.

Residents have the option of answering or not on the political attitude questions.

Open House Set

The San Rafael Co-operative Nursery School will hold an open house for parents interested in its program Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Persons interested in attending may call Mrs. Gary Soldavini, 121 Clorinda Avenue, San Rafael, for reservations and directions.

An Analysis Of The Pro Tennis League

It's almost time for the World Team Tennis season to begin and I am really curious to see how successful this latest sporting venture will be.

The World Team Tennis schedule officially starts May 6, but the Golden Gaters' first outing is Wednesday, May 8, against the Denver Racquets in the Oakland Coliseum.

Like the Warriors basketball team and the Seals hockey team, the Golden Gaters are trying to cling to the San Francisco image rather than the cross-bay community of Oakland. Although all their home games are played in the Oakland Coliseum, they are still the Golden State Warriors and the California Golden Seals.

The Golden Gaters will be playing their home games in the Oakland Coliseum and their business office is in Emeryville, one of the suites in the Watergate Tower. (No, not THAT Watergate.) I can see why Golden Gaters organizers shrugged off the title of Emeryville Gaters, but to put Oakland in front of their name would not have been all that bad.

THEIR TEAM emblem is a tennis racket with a drawing of a tennis ball over the Golden Gate Bridge superimposed over the string of the racket. It all looks very much like a San Francisco team.

Running the operation as general manager is Jerry Diamond of Tiburon, many years a public relations executive in San Francisco.

To me, tennis has always been an individual sport, about as individual as any sport could be. It was one player against the other (at least in singles), neither getting aid from outside sources. No matter how good a football running back was, he needed help and cooperation from his guards and tackles to be effective. In tennis, at least in the past, the singles player was on his own.

THERE WILL still be singles matches in the WTT, but the results will be used on a team basis, the number of games won by all team members totaled for the final results.

There even will be halftimes at the WTT matches. The scoring system for the 16-team league will include a six-set, two-half format. It works like this:

In the first half, one set of each of three events (women's singles, men's singles and mixed doubles) is played. Then comes a halftime intermission of 15 minutes. This is followed by one set of each event, played in the identical order as the sets in the first half.

WITH ONE major exception, each of the six sets will be played under the traditional rules of tennis. The first player to win six games wins the set, but sets must be won by a margin of two games, with nine-point tiebreakers played in any set tied at 6-all. The exception is that in WTT there is no deuce or advantage. The first player to win four points wins the game.

When the six matches are completed, the games will be totaled and the team with the highest number wins. In other words, a 6-1 loss can really hurt a team, much more than a loss of 6-4 or 7-6.

Terms such as "trades" and "draft choices" don't seem right for tennis, but now those are the correct words. The last player the Golden Gaters obtained — 23-year-old Dick Bohrnstedt — was acquired from Hawaii in trade along with Russia's Alex Metreveli for Ann Kiyomura. The Gaters subsequently traded Metreveli to the New York Sets for a 1975 first round draft choice. They made that move because when the Gaters acquired Roy Emerson from New York they exchanged their first round pick and Tom Gorman for the Australian star.

THE CURRENT Golden Gaters team consists of Emerson, Bohrnstedt, Frew McMillan, Lesley Hunt, Ilana Kloss and Barbara Downs. Margaret Court is also on the team but because she's pregnant won't play until the 1975 season.

It should all be very interesting. Tennis is in such a boom period as a participant sport, I wonder if the trend will continue on the spectator level. The number of viewers, of course, will be the determining factor if the team tennis concept is to survive.

Sonoma Aide Trumbo Quits

Bill Trumbo, who forged championship basketball teams at Sonoma State College, has resigned as head coach and athletic director to become head coach at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The junior college's board of trustees approved Trumbo's appointment last night, a spokesman said this morning. He will replace Hank Cooper, who will remain as a teacher in the physical education department.

"I would like to reserve comment," Trumbo said this morning. "There will be a press release coming out on this thing."

The appointment came as a mild surprise to Sonoma State President Thomas H. McGrath. "I haven't talked to him since last Thursday, when we explored the advantages and disadvantages."

One of Santa Rosa s attractions for Trumbo was a financially stable situation in the athletic department, McGrath said.

"It's been a struggle here developing financial support in the community," McGrath said. "He's done a first-rate job, but it's been a hell of a lot of work. One of the things that influenced him was the thought of moving into an established program with an established budget and resources to back it up."

Athletics at Sonoma State is not supported by student association fee money. Trumbo cited the situation last spring when he resigned to accept a coaching job at his alma mater, Chapman College in Orange County — before reversing himself and deciding to remain at Sonoma.

Trumbo will make "somewhere over $17,000" at Santa Rosa, which is believed to be an increase over Sonoma. He will teach physical education activity classes, but will not be athletic director and will not coach any sport besides basketball.

Trumbo, 35, lives in Santa Rosa. He is married and has two children. Because he wouldn't have to move his family was another attraction of the Santa Rosa J.C. job, McGrath said.

Trumbo coached at Garden Grove High School and Culver-Stockton College in Canton, Mo., before coming to Sonoma and turning the Cossack basketball program completely around.

After a 3-23 season under his predecessor in 1971-72, Sonoma State won the Far Western Conference title the following year and tied for it last year, reaching post-season playoffs both times.

Trumbo's two-season record was 36-19 and he was voted FWC coach of the year for 1972-73.

Sonoma State will start interviewing candidates for Trumbo's jobs "sometime next month," McGrath said.

Trumbo was one of eight candidates interviewed for the Santa Rosa job, the spokesman said. The group included several assistants at four-year colleges and head coaches at other junior colleges, all from within California, he added.

Oscar, Abdul-Jabbar Are Deadly As Ever

Pair Keys Sweep Of Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — "The Big J," deadly as ever, and "The Big O," evergreen pro, have the Milwaukee Bucks primed and ready to strike for the National Basketball Association championship.

The Bucks exploded in the second half for a 115-99 goring of the Chicago Bulls last night in the Chicago Stadium to waltz off with a four-game sweep of their Western Conference final series.

Milwaukee now marks time, awaiting the NBA title showdown against the winner of the current Eastern final series between the Boston Celtics and the New York Knicks.

The Boston-New York argument resumes tomorrow night in Boston with the Celtics holding a 3-1 edge in the best-of-7 series.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana kept alive last night in the Western Division playoff with Utah, winning 110-101 to trail 3-2 in the quest to face New York in the ABA title round.

As Milwaukee advanced to the final NBA round with eight victories in nine playoff games against the Los Angeles Lakers and Bulls, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sky-hooked 38 points and plucked off 24 rebounds. Kareem's center rival Clifford Ray produced 25 points.

But it was the 35-year-old Robertson who applied the coup de grace to the overmatched Bulls. Big O, in his 14th NBA season, went scoreless as the Bulls fought to a 52-48 halftime lead, but then he turned the tide with three quick baskets starting the second half.

Robertson scored 10 of his game total of 16 points in the third quarter when the Bucks broke the game open with 12 unanswered points to surge ahead 75-66 and then coast to an easy victory.

"I never saw Oscar play any better. He simply turned the game around for them," said unhappy Bulls coach Dick Motta, whose club was obliterated in its first NBA second-round effort in history.

In the ABA, Indiana's Pacers stayed alive against the Utah Stars, after once trailing 3-0 in their series, on 29 points each by Mel Daniels and George McGinnis.

Utah missed the services of ailing Zelmo Beaty, who also may be benched by an infection for Thursday's sixth contest at Terre Haute, Ind.

DAVE KINGMAN
Injury victim

Ailing Giants Host Hot Montreal Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants will be minus four key performers when they open a two-game set here tonight against a Montreal team off to a sizzling 8-2 start this season.

But two of their casualties should be back by this weekend.

Second baseman Tito Fuentes, out since opening day with a disc problem, worked out at Candlestick Park yesterday. He hit and ran well, but didn't try to bend over to field grounders. He said he was hopeful of playing Saturday against the New York Mets.

Ron Bryant, ace of last year's pitching staff, will make his 1974 debut Friday night against New York after being reactivated yesterday.

Bryant was hurt last month in a freak swimming pool accident in Palm Springs during spring training. He has been throwing well in gamestyle practices.

But infielders Dave Kingman and Ed Goodson still are hurting. Goodson, who pulled a hamstring in his left leg during spring training and aggravated it Thursday in running out his first hit of the year, is on the 15-day disabled list.

Kingman also is battling a groin pull and probably will have to stay out for several more days.

One reason that the Giants are a 9-7 after a road swing and only 1 ½ games back of Los Angeles has been the fine play of unsung Mike Phillips filling in for Fuentes.

But Phillips, too, hurt his leg Sunday after doubling home three runs in the Giants' fine comeback 6-4 win over Los Angeles. Trainer Al Wylder thinks Phillips should be able to play tonight.

Tom Bradley (2-1), one of the few healthy Giants, will match pitches with Mike Torrez (2-0) of the Expos tonight. A more awesome statistic for the big Montreal hurler is that he is 6-0 lifetime against San Francisco.

RIGHT ON TARGET.

Light heavyweight contender Jorge Ahumada bounced a right off the head of grimacing Angel Oquendo of Puerto Rico last night in New York. Ahumada scored his ninth consecutive boxing victory since coming to New York from Argentina by gaining a unanimous 10-round decision.

Opportunistic Rancho Prevails In Baseball

Rancho Cotate High School (2-1) made the most out of an opportunity yesterday.

Two Cougar runs scored on an error in the sixth inning to give them a 4-2 Sonoma County League baseball victory over visiting Sonoma.

With two outs in the sixth, Tony Crisafulli lofted a fly to center field. It was dropped by the Sonoma infielder, allowing Phil Novelly and Roger Marshall to score.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

When No Fish, Stay In Bed

Some days it doesn't pay to get out of bed. If you read last Friday's column on the forecasted weekend bass and sturgeon fishing, you should have stayed in bed!

Saturday at the Loch Lomond Harbor, about 40 boats checked in with five sturgeon and one striper. The striper was 17 inches long, caught by Stan Bola of Terra Linda. He's champ for the week! I'll bet when he landed that monster he never suspected that he would have top fish.

It's funny to hear the comments from all the pros around the harbor area when fishing is lousy. Larry Mah came in about 9 a.m. from The Brothers where he and his gang had been "shiner drifting." Said Mah: "We got out there too late!" To late? I wonder how early he usually starts, when he's already coming in at nine.

"Two Rod" Kennedy said, "I spent all day once last week for salmon and not a fish. Used 60 gallons of gas! Owning a gas station around here is like owning an oil well!"

It was cold down at the harbor too, with the wind busting out of the fog bank which was overhanging much of the bay. Yep, some days it doesn't pay to get out of bed.

Tomorrow morning starts a five-day series of minus tides. It's abalone, clam, cockle and poke pole fishing time. The annual mussel quarantine time has arrived, according to the Health Department's latest report. Clams are considered as edible, though it is recommended that the black parts of the clams be discarded. The red tide season has no ill effects on the muscle part of the abalone that you eat. Cockles could be dangerous because the stomach contents are part of the cockle used for food. Mussels should be strictly avoided — they can be deadly poisonous.

The abalone laws are about the same as always with the limit at five per person with a seven-inch size limit on the reds. The new law on abalone irons was made to eliminate the cutting or gouging of undersized abalone. Your abalone iron should be straight (not curved), be no longer than 36 inches, with a width of at least three quarters of an inch, and with the blade at least one sixteenth of an inch thick, the edges rounded.

A thing to watch for: Daylight saving time is now in effect. Most tide books were printed with the Daylight Saving Time change going into effect on Sunday, April 28. So, if you are figuring, say, tomorrow's tide which currently reads "Wednesday, April 24, 6:47 a.m. -1.0" you would add one hour to the 6:47 time making the low at the Golden Gate at 7:47 a.m. Don't knock it; this gives you an extra hour of sleep!

Two airborne abalone poachers from Walnut Creek captured by Department of Fish and Game wardens on the last tides at the Gualala Airfield have forfeited bail in the Arena Justice Court of Judge Lee Slavens.

Wardens Richard E. Fredricks and Reed Smith while on patrol, observed a light plane land at the Gualala Airfield, and taxi to a trail leading down to the beach; then two men got out and loaded 18 abalone aboard.

Robert Leo Massey and Richard Mills Pierce were charged with possession of an overlimit of 13 abalone. They each forfeited $165 bail on April 2.

It's fawnnapping season again in California and the Fish and Game Department has issued its annual plea to the public to leave baby deer alone. Fawnnapping is just as illegal as kidnapping and, although the legal penalty is not as great, sometimes the eventual outcome is just as grave.

If you take one home with you, you have doomed it. You won't be able to return it to the wild, you won't be able to keep it long as a pet, and you won't be able to find a suitable home in captivity for it.

Give that pretty little fawn a chance to survive. Look at it, photograph it, but don't touch it!

Broncos Sign 2, May Lose 1

Combined AP & UPI

DENVER — The Denver Broncos yesterday announced the signing of long-term contracts by starting linemen Paul Smith and Mike Current, but appeared on the verge of losing a third regular to the Southern California Sun of the World Football League.

It was reported yesterday that veteran linebacker Ray May, a Los Angeles native and graduate of Southern Cal, was seriously considering a three-year offer from the Sun, reportedly in excess of $500,000.

Smith had visited with the Sun last week and Current was considering a trip to talk terms this week. Smith reportedly got a three-year extension on his current contract with Denver, which had two years to run.

WENDY BRADEN

Petaluma Swim Star Is Accepted

By PAUL DWORIN

Swimming six hours per day may sound like a task about equal to sisyphys' existential battle with a boulder, but to Wendy Braden, it's a way of life. Unlike the mythical hero, though, it was her choice.

Wendy, a 15-year-old sophomore at Petaluma High School, has been swimming competitively for six years with the Petaluma Swim Club, working out four hours per day.

This spring she decided that, in addition to her participation with the swim club, she would join the Petaluma High swim team — thus adding two hours practice a day to her already full schedule.

Ironically, that decision was prompted by something which affects countless young athletes whose competitive careers started in their preteens: mental exhaustion.

"I'd been competing for six years and was beginning to lose interest. I needed something different," said Wendy about her choice.

"At the beginning of the year, I sat down and thought about all the things I was missing: parties, dates, football games. I decided that I would continue swimming, but to set aside time for my personal life so that I won't look back and say I missed so many things."

Swimming with the high school team is just what she needed to renew her foundering interest in the sport, Wendy said. There is much less pressure at that level than she has become used to.

"I had had a bad summer in swimming, and I didn't think I could do well anymore. But the high school meets proved to me that I could do things I never thought I could do again. They're also fun, because everyone isn't out to beat everyone else."

As much as Wendy has personally gained by swimming with the high school, though, it is the school which has realized the greater benefits.

A freestyle specialist, Wendy is the fastest swimmer on the team with the exception of Steve Curtis. She has recorded the third fastest 500-yard free time in the Redwood Empire this year, 5:28.5

Wendy also does the butterfly and backstroke, and has been effective in the individual medley with a best time of 2:29.3 in that event.

In her first three meets this year, the 5-foot-8 sophomore took six firsts and two seconds despite swimming with a malady that later required hospitalization.

Unfortunately, Wendy's teammates haven't fared as well, and the Trojans are suffering through a 3-10 North Bay League season.

"I was really pleased when she came out," said Petaluma High swim coach Doug Hast. "She's so used to swimming and can beat everyone on the team. I didn't hear one thing from the boys on the team and there have been no problems whatsoever."

While Wendy's decision pleased Hast, Petaluma Swim Club coach Larry Lack's reaction wasn't quite so happy; because she swims with the high school team, Wendy cannot compete in Amateur Athletic Union meets.

"At first the guys on the team were a little skeptical, but then they saw me swim," Wendy said. "I showed them up and they didn't like it, but now they accept me for what I am. They treat me like a girl and it's on a good friendly basis."

There are five other girls on the team, but Wendy is the only girl who has been successful on the varsity level.

Despite her time-consuming practice schedule, Wendy is an A and B student who wants to go to Oregon State University and get a degree in either psychiatry or youth counseling.

Those are her long range plans, however; Wendy's immediate goal will be to try and land a spot with the United States Olympic team in 1976.

"I'd really like to try out for the Olympics in '76, if I can. I'll be almost 18 years old then and should be at my peak. My coach (Lack) says I can make it, but it's all up to me and my mental attitude."

PREP OF THE WEEK

Track Not The Only Sport For Metteer

By LEW CODDINGTON

Some athletes are specialists, channeling all their energy into one event or one sport. Others play everything in sight, and Jeff Metteer is one of those.

A junior at San Marin High School, Metteer is best known for his middle-distance and relay running for the track team. However, he also has been involved in sports and recreational activities such as: swimming, basketball, water polo, football, backpacking, skiing, bicycling and lacrosse, presumably not at the same time.

"It never stops," he says.

And now, the 6-foot-2, 180-pounder appears to be coming into his own as a track performer. Last Thursday, he led San Marin's undefeated, defending champion team to an 80-56 victory over Redwood with the best 440-yard run (51.1) and best 880 (1:59.4) in the Marin County Athletic League this year.

He also teamed with Brad Kenville, John Guth and Rob Clarke for a mile relay time of 3:36.0, another MCAL best. For these feats, he was named Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

"I'd like to get down to 1:58 or 1:57 in the 880 and maybe break 50 seconds in the 440 this year or next," he says.

Metteer's career began at age 11 when he started swimming for the Novato Aquanauts. He whittled his time down to 31.8 in the 50-yard backstroke and was once voted the most outstanding boy on the team, but after four years, his swim career ended.

"We used to jog in workouts, and I found I was fast," he said, so he began to run track. He made the San Marin varsity as a sophomore.

Unable to divorce himself completely from the pool, he played varsity water polo for San Marin last fall. In the winter, he played varsity basketball. He was a football player, too, until he began breaking limbs on an annual basis (hand in the ninth grade, foot in the 10th).

Backpacking was learned from his brother Mike, now 20, about four years ago. Jeff hopes to hike in the Rockies this summer, after stalking about Oregon last year.

He has been skiing about the same length of time, and last year joined the Huski Ski Club and made frequent trips to Alpine Meadows during the winter.

He also played lacrosse one year in the Ira Markwett Junior League, but gave it up because it conflicted with track.

What does he do in the rare moments when he is not involved in some kind of sport? Mainly he studies, as befits the son of the principal of Sinaloa Junior High. He carries a B-plus average and is a member of the California Scholarship Federation.

Even his jobs are athletic. Last summer, he worked for a construction firm doing the "undesirable" but muscle-building hard labor.

All this adds up to the fact that San Marin is assured of having a well-conditioned Jeff Metteer on its track team again next year — if he doesn't decide to take up rappelling, jai alai or field hockey instead.

Drake Tops Novato In Track-Field

Drake High School, strong in the relays and the field events, defeated Novato's varsity in a Marin County Athletic League track and field meet yesterday at Drake, 71-61.

The Pirates survived three victories by Novato's Tom Bridges (100-yard dash, 120 high hurdles, long jump) and two by the Hornets' George Cagle (mile and half-mile).

Terra Linda's crucial meet at Tamalpais, scheduled for Thursday, has been changed to Friday at 3:30 p.m.

No Questionable Status For Stars

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

It looks like the giant question marks which hung over the heads of Carl Yastrzemski and Cesar Cedeno can be removed.

Exclamation points are more appropriate because both the Boston Red Sox and Houston Astro stars are off to super starts which make their respective teams look like powerful contenders for division titles—if not pennants.

Yastremski, the veteran slugger who hasn't had a really good season since 1970, is batting .360.

Cedeno, the young star whose career was threatened last winter when he became involved in a shooting incident, is batting .373.

Both are among the most talented players in the game but started the season as big "ifs." Experts wondered whether Yastrzemski could ever recover his form of a few seasons ago and whether Cedeno could shake off the effects of his traumatic experience.

Yastrzemski hit two homers and drove in three runs yesterday to lead the Red Sox to a 4-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals while Cedeno drove in five runs with two homers as the Astros defeated the Atlanta Braves, 7-0.

Recreation Softball

D&R Volkswagen defeated Next of Skin, 8-6, and San Rafael Police Department downed Golden Gate Transit, 8-1, last night at Albert Field in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league games.

BARCLAYS OPENS IN MARIN

From opening day, the brand new Barclays Bank in Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo was bustling with activity. "I don't know how many people came in the first day because we were too busy to count," said Manager Robert McCafferty, shown standing in center with Lillian E. Sutton, advertising coordinator. Those who open an account at the San Anselmo Barclays Bank between now and May 3 will get a lifetime free checking account. The new bank is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9 to 6 on Friday. Among its many services are free travelers cheques to depositors, free bank-by-mail, and three months of free safe deposit rental when a customer rents a safe deposit box for a year.

Corporate Names Cause Confusion

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. For the past two years we have been purchasing shares of Payless Drug Stores through a $10 weekly payroll deduction plan. We have paid as high as $24 and as low as $8 for the 100 shares we now own. Would you suggest we continue to buy shares or not? — F.O.

Judging from your address and the price range of your purchases, you own Pay Less Drug Stores (OTC), a California-based retail drug firm. This company was formerly known as Skaggs-Pay Less, not to be confused with Skaggs Companies (NYSE) also a retail drug chain based in Utah. To further confound the unwary, two other firms, Pay Less Drug Stores North West of Oregon (NYSE) and Payless-Cashways (OTC) with headquarters in Iowa, are also publicly owned. A proposed merger between your company and Pay Less NW was called off last year.

Your company operates a chain of 51 super-drug and general merchandise retail outlets located in California and Hawaii. Sales for 1973 rose 16 per cent to $170.8 million, while earnings increased 18 per cent to $1.33 a share. Three new stores, opened in the final quarter, contributed to the 114 per cent gain in year-to-year sales figures but also restricted profit improvement to 6 per cent. For the current year, six outlets will be added in California, Nevada and Hawaii. This conservatively financed company with $137,000 long-term debt and 2.2 million common shares has been able to finance expansion through internally generated funds. Some 38 per cent of the shares are family owned, leaving a float of 1.35 million. Pay Less, now trading about 7 times projected 1974 earnings and yeilding 3.4 per cent on a well-covered dividend, is worth accumulating for long-term appreciation.

Q. Between 1960 and 1969 I invested in U.S. Series E. Savings Bonds. What interest rate do these earn now and after maturity? — P.C.

A. In December the Treasury announced that E and H bonds purchased from Dec. 1 forward would earn 6 per cent when held to maturity in five years. Interest on all outstanding bonds was increased to the same rate. Bonds held beyond first maturity date also earn 6 per cent. In January the limitation on annual purchases was raised to $10,000 face amount for both series. The ½ per cent increase in the interest rate has rekindled buying of these savings bonds; H bonds were sold in record amounts in the first quarter.

Atlas Hotels Has Increase In Sales

SAN DIEGO (BW) — Atlas Hotels Inc. has reported sales for the six months ended March 31 increased to $8,608,780 from last year's $7,796,343.

Net operating income for the period rose to $421,265, or 31 cents per share, from $395,762, or 28 cents.

Rate Hikes Again Hurt The Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rising interest rates and inflation pulled stocks broadly lower on the New York Stock Exchange today. Trading was subdued.

Caution among investors continued to stem from soaring interest rates and fears a tough anti-inflationary stance enunciated yesterday by Federal Reserve chairman Arthur Burns may thwart the hoped-for economic recovery in the second half of 1974.

Late yesterday, Franklin National Bank of New York boosted its prime lending rate to a record-equalling 10.5 per cent.

Flying Tiger, the volume leader, dropped 1/4 to 15⅞.

Mesabi Trust, second active, added ½ to 7 ⅞ on 61,400 shares.

The glamor group weakened, with Burroughs off 1 ¾, ARA Services 1 ⅞, and Honeywell 1 ¼.

On the American Exchange, stocks fell broadly in light trading. Champion Home Builders, the most active, dropped 1/4 to 4½ on 35,100 shares.

Annual Spring Auto Show Set At Strawberry Shopping Area

A thousand dollars in cash toward the purchase of a new car will be the grand prize to be offered this coming Sunday at the annual Spring Car Show at Strawberry Town & Country Village in Mill Valley.

The parking area of the shopping center will be transformed into a giant showroom where customers will be able to see and compare the latest automobiles, trucks and recreational vehicles from all of Marin's leading auto dealers, plus specialty cars such as those that run on propane and diesel.

The all-day show, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., is free to the public. It is sponsored by the Independent-Journal and the Strawberry Town & Country Village. Adding color to the parade of vehicles will be special previews of spring and summer fashions by various shops in the shopping center.

The grand prize, to be announced at 4 p.m. Sunday, may be used toward the purchase of any vehicle from any dealer participating in the big Auto Show.

RESULTS OF EXPLOSION

A shattered window frames the scene in midtown Manhattan after a powerful explosion ripped through this office building. The blast early yesterday morning, which fire department investigators think was caused by an accumulation of gas, ripped away half of the 25-story office building and set it on fire. Today, residents nearby of apartment buildings rocked by the explosion were evacuated until authorities can make sure their structures are sound.

FBI Casts Doubt On SLA Tape

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The head of the FBI investigation into the Patricia Hearst kidnaping today cast doubt on the authenticity of the latest communication purporting to be from the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Charles W. Bates, FBI special agent in charge, said there is yet no final determination on the pencilled note and tape recording received by the Sacramento Bee which threatened to murder five California peace officers for every SLA member killed by authorities.

"But a review of the message does not indicate any connection with previous communications," Bates said.

The message was delivered in a manner similar to some earlier SLA communiques, delivered by mail to the Sacramento Bee. But it was signed by a heretofore unknown "General Pax", was unusually brief compared to earlier messages and did not mention Miss Hearst, who was kidnaped by the SLA from her Berkeley apartment 11 weeks ago today.

Meanwhile, the FBI sent out a "wanted" bulletin to Lost Offices across the nation on Miss Hearst who was kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment by the SLA on Feb. 4. She was listed as a material witness to an April 15, $10,960 bank holdup here.

Also on the "wanted" poster were pictures of Donald D. DeFreeze, 29, identified as the SLA's "General Cinque," Patricia M. Soltysik, 22, Nancy L. Perry, 25, and Camilla C. Hall, 28.

Mill Valley Students To Get Two-Week Spring Break In '75

A new 1974-75 calendar for Mill Valley schools which calls for a two-week spring vacation was adopted last night by the school district board.

Supt. Peter Palches said the new, longer spring vacation will run from March 24 to April 7. To make up for the extra holiday time, school will run a week longer than usual into the summer ending on June 19, 1975. The school year begins next fall on Sept. 10.

Palches said that the new vacation time was added to make it possible for students to take more mid-year trips.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

BUDGET — Was advised by Philip Wheeler, financial consultant from the University of California at Berkeley, that the budget should allow individual principals to make more decisions on their own on how they want to spend money in their schools. According to Palches, the board was favorable, but wanted further study of the idea.

LEAVES AND RETIREMENT — Approved four requests for one-year leaves of absence from Bruce Shaw, Middle School; Kathleen Von Langen, Tamalpais Valley School, and Marcia Ericson and Michael Kaufman of Alto School. Also accepted resignation of Betty Grimm, administrative assistant in the superintendent's office, retiring after 32 years with the district.

MEETINGS — Decided to hold May and July meetings on the first and third Mondays of those months instead of the second and fourth Mondays.

CLOSED SESSION — Held a closed session to dsicuss reassigning of personnel within the district, though no such purpose for a closed session is sanctioned by the Ralph M. Brown Act.

Gnoss To Talk

Former Marin County supervisor William A. Gnoss will talk about the early days in Novato at a public meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce at noon Thursday at the Red Vest restaurant in Novato.

Two Oldtimers Returning To Broadway Roles

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bright lights of Broadway have lured two oldtimers back to New York for stage apperances after long absences, and a third entertainer who has been away for a long time is getting ready to appear at the Rainbow Grill.

Jane Pickens is returning to the stage with her own one-woman show; Sammy Davis Jr. is rehearsing for "Sammy," a new Broadway production, and Sid Caesar is opening at the Rainbow Grill.

The occasion marks the 30th anniversiary of Caeser's first Broadway show, "Tars and Spars." For Miss Pickens, it will will be her first return to Broadway since 1949 when she created the title role in the Marc Blitzstein opera "Regina."

China Snubbing U.S. Request

HONG KONG (UPI) — The Canton Trade Fair, China's biggest sales show, has entered its second week and Chinese officials still are snubbing an American request to send diplomats from Hong Kong to help staff a U.S. government office there.

"We have had no response at all yet to our request," a spokesman for the U.S. Consulate General said today. "Not a word."

Consulate officials applied long before the April 15 opening of the month-long fair for permission to send consulate officers to the south China city to help staff a temporary office there.

PG&E Sees Cost Of Oil In Sharp Rise During '74

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. reports the cost of oil to be consumed in Northern California this year will exceed $160 million, compared to less then $35 million in 1973.

The estimate came yesterday from PG&E chairman S. L. Sibley who blamed inflation for the increase in price.

However, the utility reported the amount of fuel needed in the northern section of the state this year has been reduced to half because of public cooperation in energy conservation.

The conservation program, ordered by the State Public Utilities Commission, combined with heavy winter rains and a good mountain snowpack to reduce the estimated need.

The report by PG&E estimated oil consumption and storage requirements for 1974 to be about 20 million barrels, compared to 40 million barrels anticipated at the start of the year.
